HOOPER PLOT IS BARED AT MURDER TRIAL

KEY WITNESS TELLS OF PLAN TO BUMP OFF SENATOR

BY CHARLES E. MARENTETTE

Battle Creek, Mich., July 18 (AP) —The tempo of the trial of four men charged with plotting the roadside slaying of State Senator Warren G. Hooper quickened today as two key witnesses told in detail a bizarre story of intrigue and murder-at-any-cost.

Al Kurner, an inmate of the state prison of southern Michigan, told the jury that Sam Abramowitz, another state witness, approached him to "bump off" a "politician."

Killer Offered $3,000

"He told me he was supposed to silence him. He was testifying against some big politician," Kurner said.

"He told me I'd have to go with him. He did not specify the place, but said it was about two hours from Detroit. He said they were going to see this guy and if he didn't come to terms we'd have to bump him off. They were going to try and reach him with money." Kurner said Abramowitz "mentioned this politician had an office and we were supposed to get him right there."

"What do you mean by 'get him?'" Special Prosecutor Kim Sigler asked.

"Shoot him," the witness replied.

Kurner said Abramowitz offered him $3,000 for his part in the crime.

Strangling Considered

Kurner was preceded on the witness stand by Henry Luks, 29-year-old former convict, who described in detail before a courtroom jammed with spectators his part in the plot.

Harry Fleisher and Mike Selik, described by state police as former members of the Detroit Purple Gang and two of the four defendants in the trial, sat with Luks in a car within sight of the intended victim's home in Albion while discussing the murder plan, Luks said.

"It was mentioned that we could use some means to strangle him with a rope or belt or some other means," Luks testified. He said he later backed out of the plan, fearing the implication would be violation of his parole and result in his return to prison.

The two remaining defendants, Pete Mahoney, reputed Detroit gambler, and Sam Fleisher, brother of Harry, were not in the car at the time, Luks testified.

The witness was natty in a brown sports jacket and flashy necktie when he took the stand to relate how he first learned of the plan to kill a man who "had done a little talking and was wanted out of the way."

Meeting At Bar

Admitting he had served jail terms on three separate charges and had been given a three-day pass from Lansing by his parole officer on December 23, 1944, Luks said he went to O'Larry's bar in Detroit where he met Mike Selik. He said he had known Selik when both were inmates of the state prison of southern Michigan.

In the office of the bar, Luks said, Harry Flesher and Selik "asked me if I could get dynamite and wire up a car to do away with a fellow. They said I would get $5,000 for the job. I was to see what I could do and come back."

Luks said he spent the night at Selik's apartment and went to the bar again on Christmas night. He and Selik sat at a table and were joined by Harry Fleisher. Sam

FORCES SULKING NAZIS TO SALUTE—Members of the crew of the German cruiser Leipzig didn't salute when the barge of British Admiral Baille-Grohman passed in Kiel Harbor. So next day, Admiral Baille-Grohman, sent to escort the captured warship to England, ordered the German captain to assemble the crew on deck, sailed his barge past, and was paid the proper honors, as pictured above. It was a disciplinary measure, designed to bring home to the sulking crew a realization of their defeat. (NEA Photo.)

Salvage Work Started In Hamonic Fire Ruins; One Man Believed Dead

Sarnia, Ont., July 18 (AP)—Back at the dock where tragedy struck, the ruined cruise ship Hamonic was prepared tonight for the start of salvage operations.

Steel deck plates still hot from the fire which swept through the Great Lakes passenger-freight steamer Tuesday prevented workmen from proceeding beyond the stern earlier today.

Operating agents of the Canada Steamship lines and insurance investigators meanwhile began an inquiry into the blaze that sent 350 passengers and crewmen overboard and ended the vessel's 35-year sailing career.

Constables R. J. Whiting and Harold Graham of the provincial police post here said there was a possibility one man had died in the fire. They said that James O'Neil, 48, was at work in the ship's hold when the fire began and has not since been seen.

The 360-foot boat, her hulk twisted and blackened, was towed to the extreme end of the dock, although several small fires still burned at nearby freight sheds and railroad yards earlier in the day. Lines from coast guard tugs and salvage boats supported her as she lay at a 25-degree list.

It was from the 1,000 feet of freight sheds on shore that the fire jumped to the Hamonic after a gasoline explosion on the dock.

While the upper deck was afire, Capt. Horace Beaton ordered the ship backed away from the dock, ripping loose the mooring lines which could not be freed because of the flames.

She was permitted to drift about 100 yards downstream before Capt. Beaton ordered forward speed on the engines and rammed the bow into the St. Clair river bank.

Officers of the steamship line and Sarnia police said the captain's handling of the ship enabled passengers who leaped into the water or scrambled down ropes or cables to make their way to shore or await rescue by smaller boats. If the Hamonic had remained in midstream, they said, passengers leaping into the water might have been swept away by the seven-mile current.

Many passengers left on the bow of the ship were removed by a coal crane operated by Elmer Kleinsmith, who swung the crane's big scoop from bow to shore with as many as a dozen persons at a time.

Twenty-four hours after the fire broke out small fires were burning in the depths of the ship. Firemen poured water through a cargo hold to extinguish smouldering coal in her bunkers.

DEARBORN CITY 'GAG' REPEALED

Council President Loses First Attempt To Silence Mayor

Dearborn, Mich., July 18 (AP)—Admitting defeat in his first attempt to silence Dearborn's genial mayor, Council President Norman F. Edwards planned today to introduce a new ordinance couched in language "so simple that even the mayor can understand it."

But at least until a new measure is approved, Mayor Orville L. Hubbard can chat on the streets with constituents, write them letters or continue in other ways to do what he has been doing without fear of arrest.

The mayor regained his freedom of speech Tuesday night when the Dearborn council unanimously repealed what Hubbard called a "gag law" sponsored by Edwards. Under it, he was prevented from carrying on public relations in behalf of the city without the approval of a public relations bureau.

Appologizing for the adverse publicity he said his ordinance had brought down on the city, Edwards said the measure had been "misinterpreted." For its failure, however, he blamed "the mayor's ever-zealous desire for the limelight."

Perhaps as relieved as Hubbard by the council's action was Municipal Judge George A. Belding, who had been called upon by the mayor to rule on the ordinance's legality.

FLIERS OF ETO IN NIPPON RAID

European Veterans Fly New A-26s Against Jap Homeland

Manila, Thursday, July 19. (AP)—Airmen from the European theater joined in the Far East air forces attacks on the Japanese homeland for the first time Monday, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

The raids covered the length and breadth of Kyushu, southernmost Japanese main island. They were made by more than 350 planes without the loss of a single aircraft.

The communique announced the raiders scored effectively against enemy airfields, communications and industrial targets. There were no attempts at interception and no reports of serious enemy anti-aircraft challenge to the Okinawa-based planes.

The European veterans from the Mediterranean theater were led by Col. Joseph R. (Randy) Holzapple of Peoria, Ill. They flew new Douglas-built A-26 Invader attack bombers in the first introduction of this aircraft into major action in this theater.

The Miyazaki area on southeastern Kyushu provided targets for over 30 of the American planes. They left craters and damaged installations on the Miyazaki airstrip, one of Kyushu's major fields, and possibly hit two of the four or five serviceable planes on the field.

Direct hits also were scored on railroad lines, highways and bridges, the airmen reported. Miyazaki, a city of 60,000 population, is the center of Kyushu's southeastern farming region.

HAW HAW GETS DELAY

London, July 18 (AP)—William Joyce—better known as the one-time Nazi radio's "Lord Haw Haw"—gained postponement of his treason trial until September after pleading today for more time to investigate records bearing on his contention that he was born in the U. S. and was never a British subject

CHINESE CUT DOWN ENEMY NEAR KWEILIN

RECAPTURE OF BIG FORMER U. S. AIR BASE ASSURED

BY SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, July 18 (AP)—Six Chinese army columns, mowing down hundreds of Japanese troops in gains up to 12½ miles, converged on Kweilin today while spearheads fought through suburban gun positions protecting the city's three former American airfields, the Chinese high command reported.

Recapture of the biggest U. S. 14th Air Force base in south-central China appeared near as Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's warriors swept toward the Kwangsi province capital on a 140-mile front.

Trap Closes

Three hundred miles to the east—on the eastern flank of Tokyo's transcontinental corridor from Korea to Hong Kong—Chinese troops captured the Kiangsi province highway center of Kanhsien four days after rewinning its outlying base, a communique said.

At Kweilin, 350 miles southeast of Chungking, a bitter swaying battle raged in the city's outskirts near its three airfields as vanguards struggled to penetrate the Japanese defense lines, while major forces moved toward Kweilin from the south, southwest, west, north and northeast.

In Kiangsi province Chinese troops completely reoccupied Kanhsien, 250 miles north of Hong Kong, yesterday after four days of street fighting against rearguards which the Japanese left after the bulk of their forces withdrew from the city.

Airmen Give Support

Late American and Chinese communiques indicated that the Chinese still might be clinging to the recently-rewon American air base of Suichwan, 47 miles northeast of Kanhsien. The Japanese, in a "floating pocket" completely isolated and surrounded by Chinese troops, were advancing on Suichwan, but Chinese headquarters said their attacks had been repelled.

Some enemy elements, a communique said, swung away from Suichwan and veered toward Wawan, site of an auxiliary airfield 16 miles west on the Kan river.

Supporting the Chinese ground forces, U. S. 14th Air Force fighters roared to the area and blasted enemy machineguns, artillery em-

Oregon Fire Out Of Control Again

Portland, Ore., July 18 (AP)—The Wilson river fire roared out of control again at midday, after a brief period in which foresters hoped the blaze could be held to the 25,000 to 35,000 acres already blackened.

Radio reports said some of the 1900 weary fire-fighters were forced to retreat before scorching flames eating toward green timber.

Falling humidity—from the favorable 60 degrees of the last few days down to 36—increased the hazard. A 30-degree humidity is regarded as dangerous enough to halt logging in this state.

No. 158 Back Home From War With 103 Points, and Medals

Washington, July 18 (AP) — Remember that woman's scream you heard over the radio nearly five years ago when Secretary of War Stimson stuck his hand in a big fish bowl and drew out the first number in the draft?

That was on October 29, 1940. The number was 158. The woman who cried out from the audience was Mrs. Harry S. Bell of Washington. Her son, Harry Robert Bell, was No. 158.

"I only want my boy to be as good a soldier as he has been a son," she told radio listeners that day.

Today, ex-sergeant Bell was home again. And he slept late in a wide, soft bed.

"He's earned it," said his mother. "He is going to sleep as late as he wants to and I'll see to it that nobody disturbs him."

Wounded Twice

Bell didn't wait for his induction in regular turn—even though he was at the top of the District of Columbia list. He volunteered and reported at Ft. Meade, Md., on Nov. 27, 1940. A year later, he was back home again to readjust himself to civilian life, but then came Pearl Harbor and he was back in the army again.

Came Sicily, Salerno, Naples and Rome. Then southern France, Munich and Nurenburg.

Twice Sergeant Bell was wounded. He came home with seven battle stars, soldier's medal, bronze star, the purple heart with oak leaf cluster, and 103 points.

He's going to Palm Beach, Fla., soon to see his wife and their three-year old son, Bobby. He and Sally V. Carter were married just three weeks before he entered the army.

SEVENTH FLEET BLASTS BORNEO

Australian Troops Push Inland To Capture Oil Fields

Manila, Thursday, July 19 (AP)—Units of the U. S. Seventh Fleet have returned to the battle of Eastern Borneo, bombarding Japanese shore positions deep in Balikpapan Bay, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

Three troublesome Japanese gun positions and four barges were destroyed in the shelling, which high-lighted operations strengthening Allied control of the strategic bay area.

Australian troops across the bay west of Balikpapan pushed seven miles inland along the Riko river, clearing territory from which the enemy might harass operations in the bay. Patrols found the retreating Japanese were abandoning supplies and equipment.

MacArthur's communique said that his forces drove 30 miles inland from the captured Miri and Seria oil fields and captured Marudi, a town of 6,000 population. The advance was unopposed.

Continued patrol action and mopping up was reported on Luzon and Mindanao in the Philippines.

House Votes Changes In G.I. Bill Of Rights

Washington, July 18 (AP)—A revised G. I. bill of rights skimmed through the house by unanimous voice vote today, although several members complained about the procedure which brought the measure up without advance notice.

Its major provisions are designed to liberalize the loan and education sections of the overall veterans' benefits measure enacted last year and to overcome difficulties that have arisen in administration of the original law. The measure still requires senate approval.

It makes these major revisions:

Education: Extends from two to four years after discharge the time in which a study course may be started; extends from seven to nine years after the war's end the time in which education or training may be given at government cost; provides for short intensive postgraduate or vocational courses of less than 30 weeks; permits the government to finance correspondence courses; increases $5 to $60 the monthly educational subsistence allowance of a veteran without dependents, and from $75 to $85 the allowance for a veteran with dependents.

Loans: Extends from two to six years after discharge or the end of the war the time in which a veteran may apply for a government-financed loan; permits a qualified veteran to negotiate with any established lending agency or any agency or individual approved by the veterans administrator for a loan for the purchase of a home, farm or business in any amount; retains the existing limitation of 50 per cent of the principal, or $2,000, whichever is less, on the amount of the loan the government will guarantee; prohibits the negotiation of loans until thirty days after a veteran's discharge; provides that the loan application need be approved only by the lender, instead of by the veterans administration; and provides that the reasonable value of property involved in a loan shall be determined by the lender's appraisal.

BIG 3 TALKS OF VICTORY IN PACIFIC AREA

SPEEDY DEFEAT OF JAPAN BIG ISSUE AT POTSDAM

BY DANIEL DeLUCE

Potsdam, July 18. (AP) — Three veterans of old battlefields—President Truman, Premier Stalin, and Prime Minister Churchill—conferred again late today, with Allied victory in the Pacific a pressing goal.

This second formal meeting of the big three was as heavily blanketed by security as yesterday's, but the trend of thought among the American and British delegations seemed to make it certain that the ways and means for Japan's defeat would be fully aired before the Soviet leader.

Earlier in the day, Truman conferred separately with Churchill and Stalin.

Leaders Work Fast

The day's events indicated the leaders were agreed upon reaching as promptly as possible full agreement on issues facing them—issues upon which a speedier end of the war with Japan and the future peace of Europe may depend.

Truman, the presiding officer of the tri-power sessions, seeks as his chief goals a quicker triumph over Japan and the bulwarking of peace through solution of long-standing disputes.

He lunched today at 1 p. m. with Churchill, and then later with Stalin. He was accompanied at the second luncheon by Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, his close friend and an experienced negotiator.

Under cloudy skies, the president walked from his residence to the local equivalent of No. 10 Downing street.

Truman and Churchill talked cordially on the terrace while photographs were taken, and then lunched inside at a table set for two. When Truman was leaving, Byrnes emerged from British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's house next door, where he had lunched, and met the president at the entrance. The British delegation did not say how long Churchill and Truman conferred, nor was there any hint of their topics.

Truman Plans Dinner

Stalin was host to the president at 3 p. m. at a comparatively brief luncheon, but there were evidences that it was cordial. Caviar, fish, and meat apparently were on the menu.

Truman's calls today returned the visits paid him by Churchill on Monday and by Stalin on Tuesday. The president is understood to be planning a dinner soon at which Stalin and Churchill will be honored guests.

British and Russian officers seemed agreed that the Stalin-Churchill choice of Truman to preside, even though he is the "freshman" member of the three-power conference, was a cordial diplomatic handshake to the Missourian.

This is the first big three conference which has had a formal chairman. It was reported unofficially from Tehran in 1943 that the late President Roosevelt then was informal chairman most of the time. At the Yalta meeting, Stalin was understood to have fulfilled that office in fact, although some Americans said Roosevelt presided.

During the afternoon, Gen. George C. Marshall, Field Marshal Sir Alan Francis Brooke, and other high-ranking U. S., British and Russian officers reviewed the veteran Second Armored "Hell on Wheels" division, drawn up in a 2½-mile-long column of men, tanks, and vehicles along the Avus Autobahn.

Liquor Tax To Be Distributed Soon

Lansing, July 18 (AP)—Auditor General John D. Morrison said today as soon as his office received figures from the liquor control commission on the first month's collection of the state's new 10 per cent liquor tax, the first payments to cities, villages and county road commissions would be made.

John P. Aaron, state liquor control commission chairman, declared he had no estimate of the amount of revenue the first month's collection would bring.

The tax was imposed on the sale of all alcoholic beverages except beer and light wine during the last session of the legislature.

BRETTON WOODS PLAN APPROVED

Opposition To Monetary Bill Flattened In Senate Test

Washington, July 18 (AP)— A solid phalanx of Democrats and a handful of Republicans flattened opposition to the Bretton Woods monetary legislation in its first senate test today.

Rallying to the call of Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky), the senate rejected, 52 to 31 a, motion by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) to postpone action on the house-approved fund-bank bill.

Plans of leaders to bring the bill to a final vote today bogged down under six hours of general debate.

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky) served notice that he will strive for final passage tomorrow so that the senate can clean up its other business and take up the United Nations charter Monday.

A half dozen proposed amendments to the Bretton Woods bill still are pending.

The legislation would authorize United States participation in a $9,100,000,000 world bank to help nations finance reconstruction and an $8,800,000,000 fund to stabilize currencies.

Taft asked that action be postponed until Nov. 15 to await the convening of a world trade conference by the proposed United Nations organization.

Halifax Shaken By Blast; 13 Die, 12 More Injured

Halifax, Thursday, July 19. (AP) —At least 13 persons were killed and 12 injured last evening in a series of explosions which wrecked the Royal Canadian naval armament depot near here and started a raging fire that threatened early this morning to spread to the main magazine.

The blasts, beginning with a great concussion which shook the Halifax area for miles around at 6:35 p. m., forced the evacuation of about 10,000 people from the danger area.

The total number of casualties still was uncertain, but a Canadian naval officer, Lt. Comdr. William Sclater, said he believed that no one in the magazine area in the immediate vicinity of the first blast could have survived. Figures on how many were working in the magazine at the time were unavailable.

Fraternizing Ban Still On In U. S.

Chicago, July 18 (AP)—Lifting of the fraternization ban in Europe does not apply to German prisoners of war in the United States, Maj. Gen. David McCoach, commander of the Army's Sixth Service Command, said today.

Prisoners will be removed from jobs where it is impossible to prevent fraternization, he told army personnel and contractors employing some 19,000 prisoners in essential agricultural and canning projects in more than 60 communities of Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin.

GRASS FIRE BURNS PLANE

Grant, July 18 (AP)—Sparks carried by wind set a grass fire this afternoon which destroyed a Cub plane, one of two owned by Fliteways, Inc., of Milwaukee, and used in dusting onion fields. Nick Taylor, on whose farm the grass fire occurred, saved the other plane by dragging it to safety.

CARRIER UNITS HIT WARSHIPS IN TOKYO BAY

By Leif Erickson

Guam, Thursday, July 19. (AP)—American carrier aircraft discovered combat ships, probably remnants of the Japanese navy, hiding in Yokosuka naval base in Tokyo Bay and attacked heavily yesterday with bombs and torpedoes despite bad weather and accurate, intense anti-aircraft fire.

Yokosuka, one of the empire's largest naval bases, is only about 18 miles southeast of Tokyo, near the mouth of Tokyo Bay. It might have appeared to the Japanese to be an obvious hiding place for remnants of its once great navy.

Attack Heavy

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' communique today reported briefly that carrier pilots "launched a heavy attack on combatant shipping off Yokosuka" and added "no report of damage to targets is yet available."

Although he made no elaboration, it seemed highly probable that the combatant ships included some at least of the few warships left to the empire.

The world's largest naval force, the combined U. S. and British Pacific fleets, has been bombing and bombarding Honshu and Hokkaido unchallenged — but hoping for a meeting with anything the Nipponese war lords dared send out.

U. S. naval authorities have estimated that the Japanese have less than 10 carriers, including escort flattops, four to six battleships, including old dreadnaughts, and not many cruisers or destroyers.

On March 18, Mitscher's carrier planes discovered some of the enemy ships hiding in the inland sea of Japan and in a daring raid sank the 45,000-ton battleship Yamoto, two cruisers and several destroyers and destroyer escorts.

The Japanese ships apparently moved after that and their whereabouts had been undisclosed until Nimitz' communique today reported they were brought under attack by Vice Adm. John S. McCain's carrier task force 38 pilots.

Yokosuka naval base probably was the most obvious place for the ships to have sought to hide—inside Tokyo Bay—for it possibly was the last place the enemy would expect American forces to seek it.

Nimitz said adverse weather and poor visibility prevented reconnaissance planes from reporting any results of this audacious attack.

He also reported that American and British carrier planes raided the Tokyo and East Honshu coastal areas throughout yesterday and that light naval units—cruisers and destroyers—of the U. S. third fleet, went close inshore to bombard the eastern Honshu coast last night and early today.

The shelling carried the attacks

Development Association Meets Here To Discuss Advertising Plan

A district meeting of the Michigan Potato Development Association was held at the city hall last night, attended by potato growers from Delta, Menominee, Schoolcraft, Alger and Marquette counties, which comprise this district. Speakers on the program were Fred Hibst of Cadillac, secretary of the association; Clarence L. Bolander, Deputy State Commissioner of Agriculture; and C. H. Chapman, advertising counsel for the association. Clayton Ford of Cornell, board member from this district, acted as chairman of the meeting.

Describing the potato industry in the state, Mr. Hibst said, "It is time that potato growers of Michigan begin to do some postwar planning. In production, the state has dropped from second place in the nation to eighth place." He described the beginning of the Association, which was organized last August for the purpose of promoting better merchandising and advertising of Michigan potatoes, and to represent the $25,000,000 industry in matters pertaining to its welfare.

Commissioner Bolander, commenting on Upper Michigan's contribution to the potato industry, said, "The average yield for the state is 100 bushels per acre. Upper Michigan has averaged twice that much. It is one of the important potato producing areas of the state." He described briefly the state and national situation, and stressed the importance of holding and increasing the present markets by raising the standards of Michigan potatoes, and publicizing them to compete with competition from other states.

Pick Delegates

C. H. Chapman, advertising counsel for the Association, described the publicity work which has been done since the organization was formed, and told of the success of the campaign during the past year, despite the fact that only $5,419 was spent on advertising. "From 1937 to 1941, Michigan did nothing to preserve her markets," he said," and Maine and Idaho, spending more than $1,000,000 on advertising, encroached heavily upon markets then dominated by Michigan. Michigan has the advantage of being close to a natural market which includes 42% of the country's population."

The Association will hold a meeting on Aug. 7, in Kalkaska, Mich., to draft and adopt an advertising program for the industry, and decide on the best plan for raising funds. Two delegates were elected last night to represent this district at the meeting. They are Grey Knaus of Cornell and Morton Schire of Marquette.

Attending the meeting last night were County Agents L. R. Walker of Marquette, Joe Heirman of Alger and Schoolcraft counties, and E. A. Wenner of Delta county.

Mustang fighter-bombers also went to the aid of Chinese troops battling for possession of Shaoyang (Paoking), besieged former American air base 140 miles northeast of Kweilin.

Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer arrived in Chungking Monday and assumed command of the United States Army Air Forces in the China theater, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer's headquarters announced.

Stratemeyer, under whose new command will fall the 14th Air Force, will be air advisor to Wedemeyer, chief of all United States forces in China, it was said. It was not known when Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, who has resigned as Fourth Air Force chief, would leave the country.

Parliament Exiles King Of Belgium; Regency Retained

Brussels, July 18. (AP)—Belgium's parliament today legally exiled King Leopold III and barred him from returning to Belgian soil without parliamentary consent.

The senate, by a vote of 77 to 58, approved the measure previously adopted by the chamber of deputies. It becomes law with the signature of regent Prince Charles, a mere formality.

The act continues the regency under Prince Charles who has been serving in that capacity while his brother, the king, has been pondering steps to return to the throne at his St. Wolfgang, Bavaria, villa.

Leopold, refusing to abdicate voluntarily, had informed parliament that he was willing to bow to the people's will but wished that it be determined in a general election.

The next election, normally, will not be called until 1946.

Motor Of The Future: Super-Jets Will Drive Planes, Trains, Ships And Autos

By DAVID A. STEIN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Lynn, Mass.—The bewhiskered gag about the drunkard who promised he'd go on the wagon when he saw a battleship fly may have to be revised soon. For battleships will be able to cut through the waters at such fantastic speeds that they will actually seem to be skimming above the waves.

Research engineers are convinced that the turbo-jet motor which propels the P-80 Shooting Star at a speed near that of sound will have myriad uses in many fields. They consider jet propulsion as a new motive force, as far advanced today as the electric motor was in the world of 50 years ago.

Automotive scientists, for instance, are sure that racing fans who attend the next Indianapolis Speedway auto races, which will probably be held on Memorial Day in 1946, will see jet-propelled automobiles that will set new records in the 500-mile event.

Aeronautical engineers foresee a whole new aviation industry. They predict that the type of aircraft which defeated the Luftwaffe will become extinct, as new gas turbine-propelled aircraft supersede the planes powered by standard reciprocal engines of today.

Trains will travel across the country at speeds which today seem unbelievable, engineers are convinced. Gas turbine powered locomotives will be able to operate at greater efficiency, more economically, with adaptations of jet propulsion.

One turbo-jet motor of the type now used on the P-80 Shooting Star generates enough power to run 50 heavy trucks, at high speed and with heavy loads, at reduced cost. Only limitations would be those enforced by the need for super-highways of a type that would insure safety for long-distance deliveries.

Similarly, speeds in ocean travel would be limited chiefly by "wave compressibility," which would damage a vessel's hull because of the terrific force of the impact against the water. Engine-builders have already developed both marine and automotive engines for jet-propulsion, but are saying little about them until researchers have time to iron out the "bugs."

Economical Power Plant

The economy with which jet power plants could produce electricity opens up new vistas for greater development in such fields as air conditioning and refrigeration.

Research men lifted the veil on the future of jet propulsion at a recent conference co-sponsored by the Air Technical Service Command and General Electric, whose engineers developed the turbo-jet engine now used on our fighting planes. Research men frankly admit that they have been too busy with war work to experiment with postwar possibilities of the revolutionary motive force.

The super GE turbo-jet is the most powerful engine in the air today, yet it is amazingly simple in design and economical in operation. The gas turbine-propelled engine operates efficiently on any combustible gas, from low grade fuel oil or kerosene to 100-octane aviation gas. The Air Force has been using inexpensive kerosene in its experimental flights. The engine could operate equally well on powdered coal or compressed wood fuel.

The new power plant uses only one moving part — a shift on which a fan and a turbine wheel are attached. The fan draws in the air and compresses it. The turbine wheel turns the compressor fan. The engine's weight per horsepower is less than half the weight of conventional aircraft engines.

Aircraft engineers plan transport and cargo planes, equipped with turbo-jet engines, in which gas turbines will power propellers to take full advantage of excess energy. Propeller-jet propulsion combinations permit greater efficiency, more economy, and longer range, while pure jet would provide greater speeds.

Vast Possibilities

Increasing the horsepower to be developed is simply a matter of adding compression and combustion chambers. Since the primary aim of engineers is the development of power, they see vast possibilities in jet propulsion which would far outdistance present-day motors.

Jet propulsion has so gripped the imaginations of American inventive geniuses that "everyone with a hammer and a piece of steel," as one engineer expressed it, is working on new developments. Because heat-resisting metals of a quality hitherto unknown are needed, metallurgists are experimenting with new alloys. Similarly, oil research laboratories are bending their efforts toward discovering new fuels suitable for jet propulsion.

Metal alloys now used in GE turbo-jet motors, for instance, have 64 times the heat-resisting qualities of previously-developed steels. Tomorrow's gasoline "will not even know its own grandparents," William R. Boyd, Jr., president of the American Petroleum Institute, says.

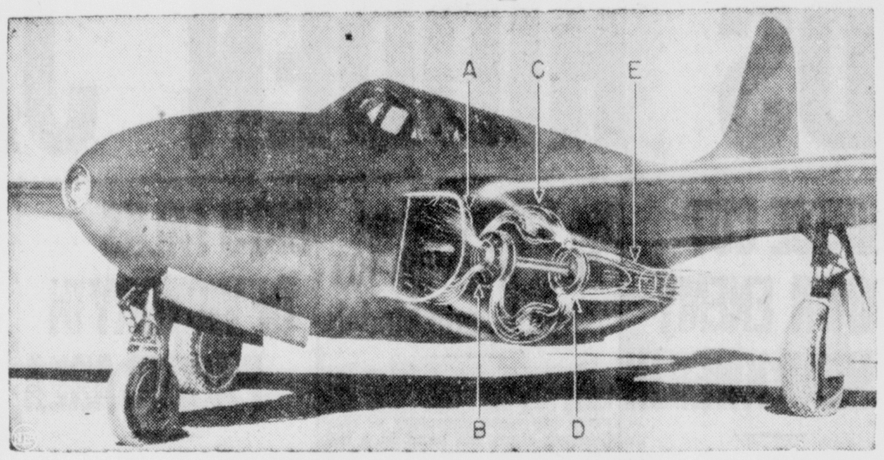

Perhaps the most remarkable fact about jet propulsion is that its discovery is far from new. Dr. Sanford A. Moss, General Electric researcher, who at 73 still continues daily experiments at the River Works here, ran across its basic principles in 1918, when he developed the turbo-supercharger. As a matter of fact, Dr. Moss made gas turbines the subject of his doctor's thesis, at Cornell University, in 1906.

War needs have sped the development of jet propulsion so swiftly that engineers estimate it has advanced 50 years ahead of the time it would have taken through normal research. Both the Italian and German air forces developed jet propulsion planes, to be followed swiftly by perfection of a British jet motor.

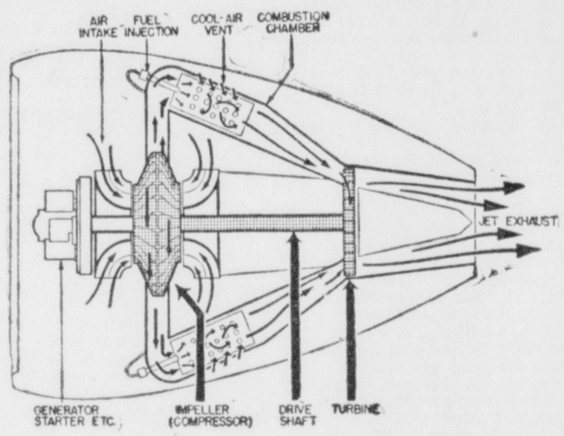

Secret Research

Gen. H. H. "Hap" Arnold, commander of the AAF, shipped the British motor to the United States. Its inventor, Air Commodore Frank Whittle, was closeted at a secret laboratory for several months with R. G. Standerwick, GE engineer, and helped in perfection of the American turbo-jet motor.

The roar of jet motors undergoing extensive tests here can be heard for miles around Lynn. The noise may be a little disquieting, but engineers and research men are making sweet music for the future.

Simplicity of jet motors is indicated in this sketch of the P-59-A propellerless fighting plane. Note that basically the motor consists of a drive shaft, impeller and turbine wheel. Air flows into intake (A), is compressed by impeller (B), and goes to blast chamber (C), where fuel is ignited and temperature raised. Turbine (D) is propelled by air pressure and in turn gives power to air compressor at front of engine. Air flows at high velocity through nozzle (E) creating by reaction the force which drives plane forward. This plane uses twin turbo-jet engines.

Basic principles of the GE "Turbo Jet" engine are shown in this design. Air is whipped into the engine and compressed by impeller. It flows to combustion chamber, where fuel is ignited. This increases pressure and raises temperature to blazing heat. Stream of hot air and gases then passes through the turbine, spinning it thousands of times a minute. Turbine compression process. Air and gases stream out of the jet exhaust, providing reactive force.

Bus Carrying 52 Swept Into Flood; Two Persons Dead

Richmond, Va., July 18 (AP)—A Greyhound bus carrying 52 persons broke through an undermined bridge across normally small Gillies Creek within the city limits of Richmond in pre-dawn darkness today and was swept a hundred yards downstream by flood waters. Only two persons were killed and none of the others was injured seriously.

Soldiers and sailors among the passengers broke windows and people climbed out to swim to safety or to cling to the top of the almost submerged bus until rescued. Captain O. D. Garton of Richmond police said about 15 inches of air space above the water in the bus enabled the people to live until they could extricate themselves.

Police and firemen removed the body of Donna Jean Hammell, a three-months-old infant. The body of Pfc. Julius R. Slofkin, 29, of Brooklyn, on his way home on furlough, was found shortly after noon when the bus was pulled to shore with cables.

The bus, inbound from Norfolk, went through the bridge a few minutes after an out-bound bus had passed over it. Most of the passengers were sleeping.

Withholding Tax Form Is Revised

Washington, July 18 (AP)—The Bureau of Internal Revenue announced today it has adopted a revised form of income tax withholding receipt (Form W-2).

The new form is basically the same as the old, but has been improved in arrangement, wording and typography.

The revised form will be useable immediately, but employers are authorized to use up existing stocks of the old form before adopting the new one.

TAX MONEY COMING

Lansing, July 18 (AP)—Gas tax money amounting to $1,275,000 will be distributed to counties and cities of Michigan for roads and streets as part of the annual $6,750,000 distribution, State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler, reported today.

HOOPER PLOT IS BARED AT MURDER TRIAL

Abramowitz joined them, he said, and he told Harry Fleisher and Selik that he had not been able to obtain the dynamite.

No Details Divulged

"I asked for details first and what it was all about," Luks continued. "I remember I asked who the fellow was and either Harry or Mike said it wasn't necessary for me to know. He had done a little talking and was wanted out of the way.

"Later it was mentioned if I didn't want to do the job alone they'd bring in Sam Abramowitz and my 'cut' would go down to $2,000. I shrugged my shoulders."

The witness said that Selik urged that Abramowitz be allowed in the plan. He declared Selik reported he and Harry Fleisher were willing to take Luks and Abramowitz to Albion.

"Harry and I have the job cased (inspected) and if you like it you can take it; if you don't, you don't have to," the witness said he was told by Selik. "Harry and Mike told me there was $15,000 up in escrow," he added.

"I asked if this was anything pertaining to the grand jury in Lansing," he went on. "Mike told me never mind. I asked if Frank McKay was involved and he told me never mind, the money is up."

Waited For Victim

Reciting that they drove to Albion on the morning of December 26, reaching that city about 8 a. m., Luks said they sat in the car a short distance from the house in which the man to be killed lived.

Luks said the four waited for their victim to appear, noted the license number of the car parked in front of the home and drove to the vicinity of the office when he failed to appear.

Luks said the four discussed ways of disposing of the man.

"I don't remember who made the suggestion. We mentioned strangling him and hitting him over the head," Luks said.

The defense counsel hammered at Luks' testimony in cross-examination, bringing out an admission that he had been granted immunity from prosecution concerning any details of the crime.

Luks maintained "I did not tell them nothing," until he was told that Abramowitz had testified and implicated him.

Testimony disclosed that Luks had submitted to a lie detector test given by state police. Judge Blaine W. Hatch sustained defense counsel objection that Sigler was attempting to have the witness elaborate on the result of the test.

MONTANA HAS QUAKES AGAIN

People Think It Is Ten Year Cycle, Science Says No

By JOHN R. WARD

Helena, Mont., (AP)—The earth is rumbling again in Montana. More than 115 tremors have been recorded by the Helena weather bureau since January 1.

Ordinarily, these seismic jerks are taken with imperturbable calm. "Feel that one?" is about the only comment provoked. That's understandable when you consider that quakes have been felt here since 1868, and that more than 2,800 have been recorded since October, 1935 without noticeable damage.

But many residents are viewing the current increase in frequency as a possible indication that the quakes have entered a 10-year cycle.

They recall:

In 1925 a major quake, with its epicenter 66 miles away at three forks, was felt over 50,000 square miles, caused damage in Helena and other communities.

In 1935, a quake centered near Helena was felt as far west as Spokane, Wash., from Alberta, Can., south to Sheridan, Wyoming; it caused $4,000,000 damage in the Helena area, four persons were killed.

Now another 10 years have passed.

There is no scientific basis for the cycle theory.

Scientists say that "an earthquake is the most unpredictable thing there is."

Dr. Francis A. Thomson, director of the Montana Bureau of Mines and Geology at Butte, puts it this way:

"It cannot be too strongly emphasized that 'no one knoweth the day or the hour' at which future shocks may occur, and that anyone who engages in such precise predictions must be written down as either a fool or a Charlatan."

Inmate Runs Away On Eve Of Parole

Ionia, Mich., July 18 (AP)— On the eve of parole a "perfect record" inmate of the state reformatory ran away today only to be recaptured shortly, with his chance for official freedom evidently lost.

Harry Helderop, 18, of Dexter, was seized two and a half miles east of Palo this evening by two fishermen after he and a companion fugitive, Raymond Depper, 21, of Ypsilanti, had wrecked their stolen truck, reformatory officials said.

Helderop, sentenced in 1943 to a term of three to four years of larceny, had been approved for parole effective after July 3 but had not been released because he did not possess the small sum of money required for his immediate release.

Warden Joel Moore, however, said he had decided to make Helderop a personal loan and to release him tomorrow. The warden said he also was to have taken the youth, who has an I. Q. of 112, to a job at Adrian. Helderop was unaware of the warden's plans.

Depper was serving a nine to ten year term for assault with intent to rape. He was sentenced in 1942.

Showdown Battle Brewing In Burma

Calcutta, July 18 (AP)—The Japanese massed troops and heavy artillery today on the east bank of the Sittang River bend in southern Burma in preparation for what Allied officers said might be the showdown battle in that area.

The Japanese were expected to try to cross the river northeast of Pegu to unite with and rescue thousands of their troops cut off in the westerly section of Allied-occupied Burma.

Japanese forces on both sides of the river were reported split into three units of approximately 2,000 men each.

CARRIER UNITS HIT WARSHIPS IN TOKYO BAY

in the Tokyo area into the third straight day.

Rear Adm. Carl Holden commanded the cruiser-destroyer force which bombarded Nojima, south of Tokyo, and other coastal installations.

Damage Report Given

Nimitz said the cruisers Topeka, Oklahoma City, Atlanta, and Dayton, and the destroyers Ault and John W. Weeks were among those shelling the coastal city's military and industrial areas.

Nimitz gave this preliminary and incomplete report of damage caused by Tuesday's raids by American carrier planes:

Burned four seaplanes on the water; damaged five others.

Sank three small craft and damaged 10 others.

Destroyed two hangars, two locomotives, and oil dump.

Damaged factories, lighthouses, trains, three locomotives and an aircraft hangar.

British carrier planes, striking separate targets in coordination with the U. S. carrier force, reported these results:

Destroyed 13 Japanese planes on the ground and a hangar at Matsuda.

Destroyed three locomotives and a railroad station, barracks and hangers.

LOSSES IN MILLIONS

Washington, July 18 (AP)—American and British forces have killed or taken prisoner some 1,500,000 Japanese to clear the way for what Admiral Nimitz calls the "pre-invasion stage," official figures indicated today.

An estimated 600,000 others have been cut off or by-passed on Pacific islands. Still thousands of others have perished in China.

(Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek reported recently that 1,203,067 Japanese either have been killed or captured in eight years of fighting in China.)

Army and Navy reports, based on actual counts and estimates, show that land fighting and transport sinkings in the American-British operations areas have accounted for 1,141,500 Japanese. The most recent estimate of Japanese naval losses adds 262,000 men to that figure.

In some cases, the figures are not quite up to date and full reports are expected to push the total beyond the 1,500,000 mark.

Despite these losses, the Japanese are still estimated to have 5 to 10 million men, including the cream of the emperor's army, for the defense of the empire.

GI Mickey Rooney Clowns In Potsdam

Potsdam, July 18 (AP) — Snub-nosed GI Mickey Rooney, former film actor, clowned tonight for Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. Army chief of staff, and hundreds of American troops in the first "live show" within the American compound at the Potsdam conference.

Rooney, with the one-time child film singer, Bobby Breen, and Jimmy James' band and a troupe of sixty enlisted men, had been scheduled to open an engagement in Berlin. But the "high brass" called him here for two nights.

Navy Grants Leaves To Men In 2 Years

Washington, July 18 (AP)—The navy arranged today to grant 30-day leaves to navy personnel it can spare who have been outside the United States two years or more.

Leaves, plus travel time, will be subject to approval of commanding officers who will have sole discretion, an announcement said. Between 8,000 and 12,000 a month may benefit.

Personnel needs of the ship or station will determine whether a furlough is given.

LIFE MAY STILL EXIST ON MARS

Astronomer Claims Many Planets Could Be Habitable

New York—Life may exist on thousands of habitable worlds among the millions of small dark planet companions of bright stars throughout the universe Dr. Henry Norris Russell, Princeton University professor of astronomy declared here.

Explaining that in the sun's planetary system, life has scored twice out of three tries, Dr. Russell holds that it is reasonable to suppose that, within the vast expanse of the universe, there may be many other bodies which actually support life.

There are only three possible habitable bodies in the solar system—Venus, the earth and Mars. The fact that the maximum surface temperature on Venus is probably that of boiling water indicates to Dr. Russell that there is no life on that planet. Life has probably existed and may still exist on Mars, Dr. Russell finds.

"Outside the system composed of our sun and its circulating planets, there was no evidence for the existence of other planets till within the last three years," Dr. Russell said. "Recent precise photographic observations, however, show that several of the nearest stars have invisible companions, revolving about them, which can be detected because their attraction causes the bright stars to move in slightly wavy curves. The smallest of these companions are certainly dark bodies, and may fairly be called planets. We can find small companions of this sort only if they belong to some one of the few hundred stars which lie nearest to the sun. Among the many millions of remoter stars, there are very likely great numbers of them. Though the conditions for habitability are fairly stringent, there may well be thousands or more, of habitable worlds among them."

Life on all these possible worlds is quite unlikely to be in the same stage of evolution as it is on earth today, Dr. Russell said. On some, there may be only primitive forms he explained. On others, there may be living creatures far surpassing mankind in intelligence and character.

POSTWAR JEEP IS GIVEN TEST

Demonstration Staged On Farm Near Toledo, O.

Toledo, Ohio.—The jeep, which has gone through the war as the Army's dependable mechanical burro, is now being groomed for postwar jobs down on the farm. The civilian version of this handy little quarter-ton truck-of-all-work was put through its paces near here today before a group of newspaper and newsreel men, on the 2,000-acre experimental farm of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc.

Outstanding change in the jeep's design is a power takeoff just above the towing hitch at the rear. This makes it possible to use part or all of the engine's power for such jobs as sawing wood, digging post-holes, pumping water, running cornshellers, etc. In effect, it converts the jeep into a highly mobile power plant that can carry 40 horsepower to any corner of the farm and then put it to work there.

The civilian jeep, like its army prototype, can still "pull like a mule and climb like a goat," but its gear ratios and clutch area have been changed to fit its pace to the needs of farm life. It can operate as slow as three miles an hour in plowing, harrowing or seeding fields, it can speed up to 60 miles an hour as a passenger vehicle or a light pick-up truck, or it can run at an intermediate rate towing a trailer with a load of as much as 2½ tons.

Other changes include more comfortable seat cushions, larger headlights, redesigned steering gear, gear-shift lever on steering column, tail-gate on truck section.

Some of the dozens of farm tasks which the new jeep can perform are: mixing cement, plowing snow, filling silos, baling hay, spraying orchards, spray-painting or whitewashing buildings, stretching fence wire, spreading fertilizer, herding stock, pulling up brush, skidding logs, running threshing-machine or combine.

DRAFT POLICIES ARE REVIEWED

Army Doesn't Want Men Over 30, Officials Are Informed

Current classification policies of the state selective service headquarters and the responsibility of local draft boards in rendering assistance to returninging war veterans were discussed by state officers of the selective service organization at a meeting of board officials yesterday afternoon a the Escanaba city hall.

Brig. Gen. LeRoy Pearson, head of the state selective service organization, presided at the meeting, thanked local board officials for their cooperation to date and presented Major Arthur A. Holmes and Major Wm. J. Meyers, who outlined the draft problems.

Major Holmes, who reviewed the current classification policies, emphasized that the army does not want men 30 years of age and over and urged local boards to give liberal and sympathetic consideration to the deferment of men in this age group.

"Men who are doing any type of useful work in a community are eligible for deferment under these standards," Major Holmes declared. "In fact, the deferment standards for men over 29 are so liberal that local boards may even grant deferment to registrants who are unemployed, provided they are making a sincere effort to find a job."

While few men over 30 will be inducted the new draft policy, Major Holmes declared that relatively few men under the age of 30 will qualify for deferment under the new regulations.

"A registrant under 30 must be irreplaceable and indispensible in a very important industry to warrant deferment," the state draft headquarters official explained. "It must be stressed that such registrants should have a Form 42A Special (Revised certified by a proper governmental agency to rate consideration for deferment, and even then the local board must weigh the evidence carefully before granting deferment to registrants in this group."

Three Responsibilities

Major Meyers reviewed the draft board's responsibility to returning veterans, stressing the fact that selective service boards are the only agency established by federal law to protect the discharged servicemen's reemployment rights.

"We urge all local boards to cooperate in every way with whatever organizations, groups or individuals offer services to the returning veteran. The local draft board, however, is the only agency to which discharged servicemen are required to report following their release from military or naval service," Major Meyers said.

The selective service officer declared that the local board faces three definite responsibilities under the reemployment provisions of the federal statute establishing the selective service organization.

"The draft board officials must protect the serviceman's right to return to his old job, if he desires it. If he does not want that job, or if he was not employed before entering military service, the servicemen may look to the draft board to assist him in securing a new job. The third responsibility is that of providing information on all phases of veterans rights to the returning soldier."

Major Meyers declared that in general assistance in finding a new job for a returning veteran should be referred to the U. S. Employment Service by local boards and that the counselling service established by such agencies as the Office of Veterans Affairs should be utilized for aiding war veterans in solving other problems upon their return to civilian life.

The army officer reported that there have been 34,500 men from the upper peninsula of Michigan in military service, of which 4,865 have already been discharged. He estimated that an additional 5,000 will be discharged within the next 12 months.

Postpone Deadline On Contract; Await Ruling By Dethmers

Supervisor O. J. Thorsen of Wells, chairman of the Delta county board of supervisors, yesterday said he was advised by E. T. Wilkins of the Cleminshaw company that the company would wait until "the end of the week" before withdrawing its offer to contract for the reappraisal of the county's 14 townships.

Meanwhile an opinion on the validity of the action of the county board in authorizing the chairman to enter into a contract for a reappraisal of taxable properties in the county is awaited from Attorney General John H. Dethmers.

It is possible that the opinion will be received before the end of the week. If the opinion is favorable, the contract with the Cleminshaw company would in all probability be signed at once. What action would follow an unfavorable opinion by the attorney general has not been announced.

DELTA EXCEEDS QUOTA IN DRIVE

County Bond Purchases In 7th War Loan 154 Per cent

In "The Mighty Seventh" War Loan drive recently completed, Delta county subscribed a grand total of $2,252,855 for all issues or 154.8 per cent of its $1,455,000 quota, it was announced yesterday by Charles Hammar, War Loan chairman for the county.

Individual "E" bond purchases, however, fell below the assigned quota. The quota was $714,000 and $523,192 or 73.2 per cent was purchased. This compares favorabely with the previous war loan drive percentage on "E" bonds, although the quota was considerably larger in the Seventh drive.

Other individual bond issues were over-subscribed. The quota for the county was $188,000 and $309,000 in other individual bonds was purchased, or 164.4 per cent of the quota.

In corporation war bonds the purchases in relation to quota reached 257 per cent, Hammar revealed. The county had a quota of $553,000 and the purchases by corporations totaled $1,420,362.

Although lagging all through the drive in the sale of "E" bonds, Delta county subscribed heavily as the drive period drew to a close. In the last week of the campaign—the first week in July—"E" bond purchases totaled $90,000.

BILL DOYLE SPEAKS

Green Bay Wedding Of Interest Here

A wedding of interest here took place in Green Bay recently when Louvain Ann Menard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Menard of Green Bay, became the bride of Thomas J. Beno, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Beno of Green Bay. The bride formerly lived in Escanaba, and is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Anderson, 224 Old State Road. The couple spoke their vows before the Rev. John Gehl at St. Francis Xavier cathedral.

The bride chose a gown of traditional white, with satin bodice and marquisette skirt and train. Her finger-tip veil was edged in lace, and she carried a white shower bouquet of roses and carnations.

The maid of honor was Miss Ileen Anderson of Escanaba, who was recently married to Lt. Roger Cady. Miss Anderson wore a gown of white organdy, styled after the bride's gown, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and American Beauty roses. Bridesmaids were Miss Laurel Menard and Miss Jeanette Morgan, who wore gowns of white dotted swiss, and carried shower bouquets of pink carnations and roses.

Redeployment

THE first service troops from the European theater of war to be transferred to the Pacific war zone have landed at Manila and have been given repair and construction assignments on Luzon.

Thus begins the vast redeployment of fighting forces from Europe to bring overwhelming weight against the Japanese.

It is evident that Luzon will become a vast staging area for troops in the Pacific, much as England was the invasion base for the assault on western Europe. It will require considerable time to build the immense facilities on Luzon, Iwo Jima, Okinawa and lesser islands wrested from the Japs that will be necessary to maintain the tremendous quantities of men and equipment being massed for the final assault on the Japs.

The war strategy in the Pacific is to be prepared for any eventuality. If invasion of the home islands of Nippon becomes a necessity to bring the war to a successful conclusion, the United States and the Allies must be ready for that assault, which will require hundreds of thousands of troops.

In the meantime, while the group troops are redeploying to the Pacific, the air war and naval attacks on Japan are being stepped up to unprecedented proportions. The pounding that the Japanese homeland is absorbing these days from bombs and naval gunfire is terrifying, but it is just a sample of the destruction that will be heaped upon Japan in the days ahead.

Japan's choice today is national suicide, even more complete than that suffered by Germany, or unconditional surrender. If the Japs possessed any intelligence, they'd choose surrender as the better selection.

Circus Coming, But—

CHILDREN and grownups, too, felt their hearts take a few extra beats this week as they watched the billposters putting up the colorful signs, announcing that a real circus is coming "direct from Hollywood" to Escanaba on next Tuesday.

Extra interest was aroused by the announcement that a well-known cowboy movie star and his famous horse would be featured in the show, which also would bring here the usual galaxy of clowns, death-defying aerialists, elephants, lions and other wild animals. This is great stuff for young and old, and naturally we all anxiously await circus day.

But, there is one disturbing note that serves to somewhat mar our first outburst of enthusiasm. The Menominee Herald-Leader reports that public officials of Menominee county have received from Yakima, Wash., photostatic copies of newspaper articles, disclosing that the Arthur Brothers Circus operated gambling devices during its performances in Seattle, Bellingham and other cities on the Pacific Coast.

We admit this is somewhat of a letdown. We know the kids and their older folks would like to see Ken Maynard ride his famous steed, Tarzan. In fact, they are still welcome. But, we feel that gambling should not be tolerated on the circus grounds, and hope the show will go on without such objectionable attractions.

Fires in Northwest

THE outbreak of forest fires in the Northwest, causing heavy destruction to timber resources of vital importance to the nation, should be accepted as a reminder that the danger season is also at hand in the Upper Peninsula woods.

Frequent rains kept the fire hazard down during the spring and early summer in this region, but we cannot rest assured that these favorable conditions will continue. With warmer weather approaching, the public will be going in greater numbers into the woodland areas for fishing, picnicking and other forms of outdoor recreation. More cigaret butts will be thrown away carelessly and more campfires left unguarded, all of which will make the danger of forest fire destruction very real.

We want to keep the Upper Peninsula forests green. We need to grow trees to sustain our woodworking industries for future generations, and we need the uncharred timberlands to attract vacationists after the war. The preservation of our timber resources is the key to the future economic development of this region.

Makes No Difference

DISAPPEARANCE of Adolf Hitler and his sweetheart, Eva Braun, after the fall of Berlin is developing into a mystery that probably will assume the stature of the intriguing tales of the Lost Dauphin of France and other historical figures who mysteriously vanished long ago.

A newspaper correspondent's story that the Fuehrer had escaped by submarine to Argentina to seek refuge on a German-owned estate has been denied by the Argentine government. A more recent report says the "great lovers" are hiding on Queen Maude island in the Antarctic. At various times, they have been reported in other places, and an equal number of stories of their death by suicide also have been told by alleged witnesses.

It does not make much difference now whether Adolf Hitler is dead or alive. After all the evil doings for which he is responsible are revealed to the German people, there will be little reason for them to revere him as a national hero. The Germans have little to thank him for, since he has brought them only suffering, death and humiliation.

Even if he were alive there is no chance that he will ever again lead Germany to new conquests. The representatives of peace-loving nations who met at San Francisco recently have laid the foundation for a world organization designed to prevent dictators, like Hitler and Mussolini, to ever rise to positions of power and embroil the world in conflict. As far as the world is concerned, Adolf Hitler is dead as a dodo.

Unfortunate Blaze

GREAT LAKES passenger boat business suffered a rude jolt Tuesday when fire caused heavy damage to the Canadian Steamship Lines' cruise ship Hamonic at its dock in Sarnia, Ont. Latest reports stated more than 150 passengers were injured.

Great Lakes passenger boat lines have been enjoying a revival of popularity among vacationists in wartime as a result of the restrictions on automobile travel. Quite likely, the unfavorable publicity will cause a number of cancellations of boat reservations until the incident passes out of the public's mind.

The incident, however, will not alter the plans of those companies who have been planning to build new ships for the pleasure cruise business after the war. They apparently think there will still be money to be made in Great Lakes pleasure travel even after gasoline rationing ends. The American vacationist is always looking for something different, and a lake cruise, indeed, offers a variety of experience not available on land.

PRICE CEILINGS ON FISH

(Marinette Eagle-Star)

Announcement by Mr. Walters, regional Price Administration director, that all fish caught in the Great Lakes will be placed under price control within a few weeks comes as no surprise and, in fact, is long overdue.

Here in the twin cities we have been naturally sympathetic toward a strong market on fish because, ordinarily speaking, the commercial fisherman's revenue is not commensurate with the hard work of lifting nets and the risks he takes. Many a fisherman has had a good year of earnings in sight, only to have his profits wiped out by a single day's storm.

The growing shortage of meat has changed the picture completely and the fisherman's revenue is no longer in line with his efforts, frankly speaking. On the contrary, the public is compelled to pay what it considers is an outrageously high price for fish with fish wholesalers here in Marinette getting 64 to 68 cents per pound for lake trout, 60 to 65 cents for whitefish and 25 cents a pound for perch. The retail price is higher, of course. At some Great Lakes ports the fishermen are getting as much as 80 cents a pound at the docks for trout because some buyers are willing to pay almost any price to get food.

We have now reached a situation where the public is being gouged as it seeks fish as a substitute for meat. The gouging may become worse unless the Office of Price Administration steps in, as it has announced it will do.

A TWO-WAY BENEFIT

(Christian Science Monitor)

Shortening the limit on advance Pullman and coach-space reservations on trains from one month to five days, as ordered by the ODT, is proving helpful to many. Those whose trips are made, by necessity, on short notice no longer find that space has been tied up three weeks in advance. The ruling helps harassed railroad employees because:

1. Fewer vacationists are making reservations for long trips for fear of being unable to obtain return accommodations. 2. Less "speculative" space is being purchased by hotel porters and business firms; hence, cancellations and re-sales are fewer. 3. Curtailed travel means less work for harassed ticket-sellers.

To be sure, the ODT did not make its ruling for these reasons. The far more important movement of American troops necessitated it. But the "by-products" nevertheless will be beneficial.

Moreover the later ruling, by which Pullman sleepers have been canceled on all runs under 450 miles, is helping to give soldiers better accommodations. (Incidentally, it throws the burden on hotels to put up those who formerly spent the night on trains.) The curtailed service may last only a few months. Certainly it is nothing to grumble at.

Take My Word For It . . Frank Colby

READERS' CORNER

From H. A. S., Omaha: You recently explained that "full" is the opposite of "empty." Would you say that a bottle that is half full is empty?

Answer: No; neither is it full. One may say "half empty" or "half full."

From M. G. S., Milwaukee:

I do enjoy your column
And wish that in my day
The "do's and "dont's" of grammar
Were taught the Colby way.
Your litttle lessons get results,
To me it is no mystery;
You are to English grammar
What Van Loon is to history.
Answer:
I must confess that grammar is
To me incomprehensible.
Since I must write or starve, I've sought
Some way to make it sensible.
By giving all the Latinized
And long-haired terms a pruning.
I have become to English what
Sinatra is to swooning.
(Whee-e-e-e!)

From A. H., Washington: For your "English as she is wrote" department, here is an article that describes an aged priest as "aesthetic-looking."

Answer: "It's a common error. Aesthetic means "of or pertaining to the beautiful in art or nature." The article should have read "ascetic-looking." Ascetic, pronounced uh-SET-ik, means "of or pertaining to abstinence or austerity."

From C. G., Flint: An article speaks of "Alan Hale, who usually plays 'hard-bitten' characters." Shouldn't it be "hard-bitted," as is sometimes said of horses?

Answer: "Hard-bitted" refers to a tough-mouthed horse that resists the bit. "Hard-bitten" is said to have come from "hard-biting," and originally referred to a savage dog.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

In old Hi Johnson's vote against the charter of San Francisco, there was a lot more honesty than in the Healy-mouthed words that some of his fellow isolationists will utter when the issue comes before the whole Senate.

Childs

"When the devil is sick, the devil a monk would be." That old saw covers the late conversion of some of those who are "going along" with ratification. For the moment, public opinion in favor of the charter is too strong. They dare not speak up. For instance, Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana comes up for re-election next year.

The effort to make the vote on the charter unanimous seems to me to be a mistake. That implies that it is so innocuous that anyone, regardless of previous convictions, reservations or doubts, can go along with it. If the charter is a mere form of pious words, then a vote for ratification is a cheap gesture. It is this last that is in the attitude of some who have belatedly come to the mourners' bench.

—HIRAM JOHNSON UNCHANGED—

Senator Johnson, an institution in the Senate with his inevitable cigar in the stubby cardboard holder, sees no reason to change the convictions he has brought out of the past. It is in the past of the old League of Nations fight. Then Hi Johnson was in the thick of the fray. With Lodge, with Reid of Missouri, he helped to reject that other covenant. And he believed that the forces of righteousness had triumphed.

There was still another westerner in that fray—Borah of Idaho. Those who heard his swan song in the Senate will never forget it. The lion of Idaho was a little feeble, his voice a little cracked yet he stood on his feet for several hours on a gray afternoon in the dim gloom of the Senate chamber to declaim against the lend-lease bill that Roosevelt had sent to the Senate. He was standing against the onrushing tide of change but, even if you disagreed with him, you could not help but admire an old man with the courage of ancient convictions.

It is hard to understand younger men like Senator Robert Taft of Ohio. Senator Taft will vote for ratification of the charter. But at the same time he has been working hard to prevent adoption—or at least to postpone consideration, which might come to the same thing — of the Bretton Woods International Monetary fund.

EITHER FOR OR AGAINST—

That seems to me the height of inconsistency. You are either for world cooperation and for the means to try to make it work, or you are against it. Bretton Woods is part of the furniture—the kitchen stove—that goes in the House which is the charter. In order to live in the house, you have to have things to work with—the practical tools of living.

Yet we have Senator Taft trying to stop Bretton Woods. He says it is dangerous. He says it may waste American funds to no purpose at all.

Of course, it may. There is no guarantee that these instruments—Bretton Woods, the charter, the reciprocal trade program—are going to lead us ino a promised land of international peace and brotherhood. They are limited. They are tailored down to too many prejudices already.

That is another reason why, in my opinion, the attempt to get unanimous approval is a mistake. I would like to see at least one senator vote against the charter because it isn't strong enough or good enough. Such a vote, out of real conviction, would help us all to realize what a very small beginning we have made and how unceasingly we must go on working for a stronger bond.

Retiring Supreme Court Justice Owen Roberts had the forthrightness to say just that the other day. He said that the charter was so limited, so watered down, that it would hardly work, and that sooner or later we must accept a document which would unite the nations of the world in a true world state.

He said that at the same time that Senator Millikin of Colorado was demanding to know, the way a cautious old lady asks if there is a fire escape in a new concrete and steel hotel, whether America could leave the new organization whenever we might want to. Senator Millikin will vote yes on the charter. He will vote yes as too many others are voting yes, with one eye on the door and ready to yell fire if Hi Johnson strikes a match to light his cigar.

TRAINING GROUND—The importance of the American family home environment as a training ground for military life becomes sharply apparent when we consider the background of Sgt. Oscar G. Johnson, Jr., of Foster City, who has been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for heroism on the Gothic Line in northern Italy.

Dunathan

Proponents of peacetime conscription and military training might well consider the American heritage of "home grown" courage in contrast to the regimented lives of those in totalitarian states.

Sgt. Johnson is a product of the typically rural American family. His parents are the kind of people you will find in thousands of American communites, on thousands of American farms. They are courageous and hard-working, strongly self-reliant and quietly religious in their convictions and aspirations.

* * *

NO CHEST THUMPING—Sgt. Johnson is 24 years old. He spent most of his life on the family farm near Foster City, and attended the Foster City schools and graduated from the Felch high school.

In these public schools, as in other schools of our country, he was neither "indoctrinated" or "regimented" in his actions or his thinking. Perhaps in that peaceful period of his boyhood there was little of the "war play" in which youngsters indulge so much today.

Guns were weapons designed for sportsmen, not soldiers. And Sgt. Johnson hunted and fished in the woods and fields adjacent to his father's farm.

In his activities on the farm and in the woods he grew strong and healthy and resourceful. He was not told that he was the product of a "master race," or that his life was inconsequential and belonged to his country. Under such an environment it would be natural to value human life and to enjoy living.

* * *

HASN'T CHANGED—He was a member of his local 4-H Club, and with other farm boys and girls competed for honors in 4-H projects work. At a time when, in Germany, Japan and Italy there was "honor" only in marching like automatons and thinking like little gangsters, Sgt. Johnson was feeding calves, milking cows, pitching hay, playing games in high school sports competitions.

Now with medals as a war hero, and discharged because he has received the highest honor which this country can bestow upon one of its citizens, Oscar Godfrey Johnson is again a modest young man ready to go back to work in civilian life. He's going to help out with the chores on the farm this summer, get a war job in Milwauke next winter—and some day he wants to own a farm of his own.

* * *

THEY HONOR HIM—It is typical of his background and his people that Sgt. Johnson is honored by his friends and neighbors without direction of some official of a "super state."

Saturday night when he got off the train at Iron Mountain there was a crowd at the station to welcome him. The crowd parted to let his mother and father through to be the first to greet him — and then a young woman whose enthusiasm was greater than her sense of propriety pushed ahead to be "the first to shake his hand."

That night the Swedish Mission church of which he and his family are members sponsored a party for him. Sunday afternoon the 4-H Club of which he was a member held a picnic for him at Norway lake. The warmth of his welcome was spontaneous and from the heart.

* * *

THE JOHNSON HOME—When Sgt. Johnson reached his home he found it practically unchanged from the time he left for military service.

There was the modest home where he had known so much happiness as a boy. There was the big kitchen where his mother cooked the meals for her family of her husband and four sons—plus the "help" necessary during the rush work periods.

And there was the big dining room table where was served the other day one of Mrs. Johnson's dinners—sliced roast beef, a canned meat, gravy, baked beans, potatoes, "wilted" leaf lettuce, fresh tomatoes, carrots, creamed corn, pickled pears, bread and butter, cake and canned apricots, rolls, coffee.

And there was Mrs. Johnson herself, a clear-skinned motherly woman with blue eyes. Sgt. Johnson resembles her.

The home is heated with a furnace in the basement. There are electric lights, with power furnished by the farm electric plant. This will be replaced with a connection with an electric line as soon as the line is extended to their farm.

* * *

360-ACRE FARM—On Sunday Mrs. Johnson's brother, Carl Olson, principal of the Manistique high school, came to call on the family and to greet his hero nephew. There has been a steady stream of relatives and friends to the Johnson farm since Godfrey came home.

Sgt. Johnson is "geting his feet on the ground" again at the 360-acre farm which was his "training ground" for war. Here are all the familiar sights which made him a strong and courageous soldier—the wide fields, the big barn waiting for its summer ration of hay, the horses and cattle, and in the distance the woods and streams where he hunted and fished.

This scene, not the hard-packed drill compound, was where Sgt. Johnson learned heroism and devotion to his country.

—Clint Dunathan.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1935

Appointment of a Delta county planning commission, whose principal duties will be to advise the board of supervisors and other public bodies concerning various phases of the new WPA projects to be launched here, was announced last night by S. N. Harrod, chairman of the board of supervisors. Those chosen are Jay Kleiber, James Dotsch, Carl Sawyer, William Warmington, Ole Peterson, Claude Hawkins, Charles Good, T. F. Kessler, E. H. Waterhouse, James Sharpensteen, and Ben Sparks.

Delores Ann Cooper celebrated her fourth birthday anniversary be entertaining four of her friends at a party. Games were played and a lunch was served. Those present include Mary Lou and Phyllis Ann Villemur, Irene and Rita Joncas.

20 Years Ago—1925

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rice, Henry Hippes, Clifford Hoffman of Chicago and Mrs. E. Hippes of Little Lake left this morning after a visit at the St. Pierre, 617 North Eighteenth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Flath will hold open house dances at the Coliseum this week for those who attend the dances there regularly. The dances will be free and two bands will play alternately.

Ralph Coleman entertained a group of his friends at his tenth party yesterday. Games were played, a lunch was served and Ralph was presented with many lovely gifts.

The Lyons Den

—By Leonard Lyons

Commodore Harold Vanderbilt, the yachtsman, banker, railroad official and creator of Contract Bridge, often has played bridge for high stakes against George S. Kaufman. During one game Vanderbilt sighed: "Times are getting tough—so tough that I now have to live on my income" . . . "Live on your income?" Kaufman gasped. "What've you been living on up until now?" . . . "Until now," said Vanderbilt, "I've been able to live on the income of my income."

Vanderbilt once was teamed with Jimmy Maier of the 4 Aces, in a bridge game against Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson, who lost $199 each. Culbertson gave Maier his check for $199 . . . "And I'll mail you my check tomorrow," Mrs. Culbertson told Vanderbilt . . "If I give you one dollar," said Vanderbilt, "that would make it an even $200, wouldn't it?" . . . "Yes," said Mrs. Culbertson. "Would you like to do that?" . . . Vanderbilt paused, shook his head and decided "No."

John W. Gates, who won his reputation as "Bet-a-Million Gates," once sent his son, Charles, on a tour through Europe. From Monte Carlo came a cablegram: "Please send $10,000 immediately" . . . John W. Gates cabled back: "What for?" . . . "For Charlie," his son replied . . . Gates sent the money.

Bugs Baer tells of a small-town wise guy in Virginia who made some money by hustling people into pool games with him. For five years he plied his billiard trade in these small towns, and then decided to try the Big City. This small-town wise guy gathered all his money, went to Philadelphia and there increased his fortune by playing pool. But on the second day the wise guy lost all his money. He bet that Philadelphia is the biggest city in the world.

Arnold Rothstein once permitted a Broadway writer to became his partner for one day in booking horse races at the track. By the time the last race was about to be run their one day's bankroll was almost depleted. Their only chance to recoup rested on a long-shot upon whom nobody had bet . . . The race began and at the first quarter the writer began cheering for the long-shot. He turned to Rothstein and noticed that the gambler, unlike everybody else, wasn't watching the race. In fact, he had his back to the track. "Hey, Arnold," the writer shouted, "aren't you interested in even looking at the race?" . . . "Listen, pal," Rothstein shrugged, "they GOT to go around, don't they?"

Titanic Thompson, expert golfer, ace marksman and exceller in the art of flipping 52 playing cards, one at a time, through an open transom 15 feet distant, once developed an offshoot of the hoary shell game. He'd station himself at 51st St. and Broadway, adopt an expression of innocence, and would munch from a bag of unshelled walnuts in his hand. "I'll bet," he'd tell the sucker who inevitably would come along, "that I can throw one of these walnuts over the top of that tall building across the street." The bets were made, Titanic proceeded to wind up, and actually accomplished this remarkable feat. The walnut he hurled of course was a specially prepared one, loaded with shot.

Nate Raymond was one of the few gamblers who wagered on the outcome of golf matches. During a Ryder Cup match he went to the clubhouse and bet heavily against the visiting Britishers. He told Capt. Roe, who was in charge of the British contingent, "your men use the wrong clubs and know nothing about approach shots. How can you possibly win? Just what has your team got?" . . . Capt. Roe clicked his heels and quietly replied: "Ten gentlemen."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Army officers recently returned from Germany are telling this story to illustrate the difficulty of selecting Germans with whom they can cooperate.

Pearson

When the psychological warfare branch of SHAEF established the first Allied newspaper for German readers in Aachen last winter, it was decided to use German personnel wherever possible. Editorial control, however, was to be strictly Allied.

A type-setter who seemed to have the respect of his fellow-workers in the printshop of the existing Aachen newspaper was selected to serve as plant superintendent. He had come to the shop with a worker's cap, overalls, and mixed well with the other printers.

Next morning a man in a top hat, winged collar, frock coat and neatly pressed striped trousers appeared in the front office and asked where his desk was to be. The Americans at first did not recognize him, finally realized that he was the worker chosen the day before to be plant superintendent. After some hesitation, he was given a small private office.

About noon an American officer passed by this new office of the superintendent and found the words "Eintritt Verboten" (entrance forbidden) being lettered on the door.

—FRANCO GETS SUGAR—

No matter how many high U. S. officials may oppose Dictator Franco of Spain inside the government, he always seems to come up with a staunch defender in the state department. This was illustrated recently during off-the-record debates on the highly delicate question of sugar.

Though the American public has been getting more and more pinched for sugar, the state department has always insisted that Spain be cut in for its quota. The state department has issued carefully-worded denials saying hat the sugar does not come from the United States—which, of course, is true. It comes from British colonies in the Caribbean area. But so also does most sugar consumed by the American public come from the Caribbean, and during the war it has been tightly controlled by the combined food board. Thus, whatever is sent to Spain, in the end, comes out of the sugar bowls of the American dinner table.

The combined food board allocates sugar to all our Allies, and several weeks ago UNRRA placed before it an estimate that Poland, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Greece and Albania, all of them victims of Nazi aggression, should get a combined total of 140,000 tons of sugar.

The combined food board thereupon agreed to let UNRRA have 40,000 tons to meet this need. This was considered a definite promise, and UNRRA then began searching to find an additional 100,000 tons.

—McKELLAR'S WRATH—

July 4 was Independence day to most of the U. S. A., but not to the guards of the Senate office building. It brought them a lot more work. For on that morning, about 20 senators, coming to their offices, were forced to take a little extra exercise by walking a block to three blocks in order to find an entrance to the building that was open. They finally found the main entrance open—with five guards sitting around enjoying the holiday which was not, for other federal workers in Washington, a holiday at all.

Combined with the wrath of the score of senators who wanted to work through the holiday was the anger of Senate President Kenneth D. McKellar. The gentleman from Tennessee, who puts in long, hard hours at his office, recently appointed his chauffeur, Frank Ensley, postmaster in the little town of Newbert, Tenn., with Mrs. Ensley named assistant postmaster. The Ensleys, who passed civil service examinations for their jobs, get $1,800 and $1,200 respectively.

McKellar's new chauffeur, not used to coming to the office building on holidays, pulled up at the entrance closest to McKellar's office and the Senator walked to the door, only to find it locked.

He had to trudge back and around a corner for about 100 feet, then up a long flight of stairs to the main entrance to the building.

McKellar's experience, plus that of the other 20 senators, was detailed in no uncertain terms to Dave Lynn, Capitol architect. Result is that instead of having two doors open on Sundays and holidays—with two guards splitting duty at each door from 8 a. m. till midnight and two elevator operators doing likewise at each open entrance—all the entrances must hereafter be open, with guards on duty. In addition, there must be a guard at the entrance to the parking space in the building courtyard, two men in the guard-room, and elevator operators at each of the four corners of the building.

It doesn't pay to take time off on the Fourth of July.

Again we're stuck with the "auto use tax" stamp to stick on the car we haven't enough gas to use.

Whatever the answer to the old question, "What's cookin'?" the next question is "Where'd you get it?"

A Cleveland drug store was robbed of 300 cartons of cigarets and 40 boxes of gum. The familiar sign, "Just Out," will really mean something.

A French writer says American girls are just dolls. Try taking one out to dine and stuffing her with sawdust!

AAA TRAVELER WILL TOUR U. P.

James P. Welsh To Talk In Escanaba On August 6

James P. Welsh, the Old AAA Traveler of the Automobile Club of Michigan, will be in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan the week of July 30 on a fact-finding and picture-taking mission. His objective is the gathering of material to be used in further promoting the "Land of Hiawatha" among the hundreds of thousands of American motorists hungry for travel and awaiting only the lifting of restrictions before they hit the open road.

Mr. Welsh will address the Escanaba Kiwanis club on Monday, Aug. 6, while on his Upper Peninsula tour.

"Even with travel restrictions lifted, it will be some time before the average American will be able to plan vacations into faraway places," the Old Traveler writes from Detroit, "and that means that the first of the heavy-volume travel will be into sections within a few hundred miles of the urban centers. That would make the Upper Peninsula the ideal playplace for Detroiters and the residents of other war production centers in Michigan and in neighboring states. The war worker is hungry for travel and has money to spend, all of which adds up to big business for scenic sections.

"From our club membership of 235,000 in Michigan we are flooded with pleas for information on vacation places within nominal distances, hence we feel that the Upper Peninsula offers the answer. It is for that reason I'm heading into that magnificent land of green forests and blue lakes to gather up-to-the-minute data on scenic highlights and accommodations."

Welsh will be accompanied by Ed Shumaker, chief of the club's road service division, who will survey the country for his department. That all-important division of the club has operated the Wartime Motoring Bureau, designed to keep members' cars on the road through the wartime emergency.

Tax Commission Starts Equalization Study Here

An investigation of property values in Delta county to establish a base for equalization of valuation between the cities of Escanaba, Gladstone and the townships is to start today, following the arrival in the county yesterday of Charles D. McCauley, of Lansing, director of field administration for the Michigan tax commission.

The investigation is the preparatory step toward equalization by the state on an appeal to the commission by Supervisor Peter N. Logan of Escanaba.

Supervisor Logan appealed to the state to equalize, and declared that equalization as made by the county board of supervisors at its June 25 meeting was inequitable and discriminatory.

Louis M. Nims, chairman of the state tax commission, in a letter to the county clerk, said the commission had examined the petition filed by Supervisor Logan and that the commission had found an appearance that the equalization as made by the county board was "unfair, unjust, inequitable or discriminatory" and had ordered an investigation.

Will Check Properties

Yesterday McCauley said that the first step in the investigation will be to check the value of properties in each governmental unit of the county. The examination will include all types of properties, and a base figure will be established for the various property classifications, such as residential, commercial, industrial, farm and resort.

This base figure for the various classes of property will be checked against the valuation figures placed on the assessment rolls in the cities and townships.

McCauley said that in Escanaba, where a property reappraisal was recently completed by the J. M. Cleminshaw company, "there will be the same investigation, regardless of the reappraisal."

The investigation will be completed before the October meeting of the county board, McCauley said. At the October meeting of the county board of supervisors there will be a hearing held when all interested parties will be given the opportunity to be heard.

The state tax commission annually is petitioned to make equalization investigations in Michigan counties, McCauley said. There were three or four appeals on equalization in 1943, two last year "and several this year."

Other Examiners Coming

Tax commission examiners versed in the investigation of values in the several classes of property will come to the county during the coming weeks. The schedule of work here will be fitted in with that underway by the commission in other counties. Yesterday, Examiner Charles Uren of Iron River accompanied McCauley to Escanaba. McCauley will return to Lansing today but will return as the investigation progresses.

Prior to Supervisor Logan's appeal on equalization, the county appealed to the state tax commission for a review of the allocation of tax millage. The county contends that the county was allocated insufficient millage to meet its budgetary needs.

McCauley said yesterday that the hearing on the allocation complaint by the county will probably be held at the October meeting of the county board. He pointed out that by an investigation of values for equalization, information important to the allocation hearing also will be obtained.

$1.79 Ceiling Put On Stirrup Pumps

A retail ceiling price of $1.79 each, and a wholesale ceiling of $1.20 each, have been established for new stirrup pumps bought originally by the Office of Civilian Defense and now being sold for civilian use.

The ceilings, effective July 20, 1945, cover both the pump and the attached 10-foot-long hose with two nozzles.

These pumps, originally bought by OCD for fighting fires in event of air raids, can be used for spraying plants or trees with insecticides, or for white-washing, watering gardens or washing cars, as well as for fire fighting and other purposes.

The public will be able to get the pumps from retail stores customarily handling such items. Stores wishing to buy pumps in wholesale quantities may obtain them from the Supplee-Biddle Co., Philadelphia, Pa., a distributing concern through which the government is disposing of the pumps, OPA said.

VET HOSPITALS NOT ADEQUATE

No Treatment Facilities For Shattered Nerves

By MARJORIE VAN DE WATER

New York—The discharged soldier who needs treatment for shattered nerves or mental illness may not be able to find it, a survey made by the National Committee for Mental Hygiene reveals.

There are 25 states without a single community clinic and "vast areas" in other states where no psychiatric help is available, it was found. Of all the established hospitals and clinics in the entire country, only 139 certified their preparedness to treat mental casualties.

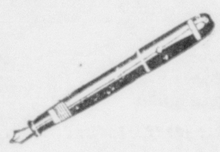

Although the veteran is entitled to treatment, the Veterans Administration can't provide it when neither clinics nor psychiatrists are available, the committee reports.

"The number of Veterans Administration neuropsychiatric hospitals is at present limited to 30," the committee states. "They offer hospitalization to all who need it but there is overcrowding. The most serious deficiency, however, occurs in connection with outpatient treatment. Because many of these hospitals are located near large cities the outpatient treatment which they have to offer is impossible for men who live in the country.

"Besides, the Veterans Administration cannot furnish or find anything like adequate outpatient clinic facilities for all those dischargees who do not need to be hospitalized but do require psychiatric treatment.

"This lack of outpatient care is very serious. Both in the interest of the veteran and in the interest of the citizenry at large, psychiatric care should be available throughout the country; this would necessitate increasing the present number of psychiatrists by at least 10,000 together with the necessary auxiliary staffs."

Sergeant Hesser Comes Home From the Wars

Breakfast in bed was just a dream until now for S/Sgt. Charles W. Hesser, 26, E. Norristown Township, Pa. He was among the first 1200 men discharged at Fort Dix, N. J., under the Army's new point system. Mrs. Hesser's sister, Vergene (right) has joined the family group to hear Sergeant Hesser's praises of home-cooked chow. And is his son, Johnny, 5 years old, ever proud of daddy!

Sergeant Hesser's adjusted service rating was well over the 85 point minimum requirement. He enlisted in December, 1940, went through blitz and buzz bombings in England, and saw combat in France and Germany with General Patton's rip-roaring 3rd Army

With separation processing, physical checkup, orientation, final discharge and mustering out pay details ended, Hesser heads home.

A kiss from his wife, Grace, and a handclasp from impatient Johnny make homecoming at Norristown station a memorable and impressive occasion.

The neighbors are fascinated as Sergeant Hesser takes time out while shopping at Bill Reed's general store to tell about his experiences at he Ardennes breakthrough. "I'm glad to get out," says Hesser, "but boy, I've got plenty of worldly experience."

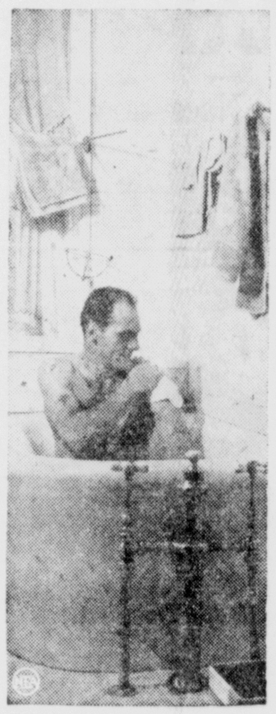

After attending services at the Church of the Little Flower, at Center Square, Sergeant Hesser and his wife pause at a shrine of the Virgin. Even when he went to church, Hesser kept a tight grip on his Discharge Certificate, which never left his sight.

Hesser stops off at his father's farm to say hello and show his discharge papers. Elder Hesser, Charles J., is a veteran of World War I.

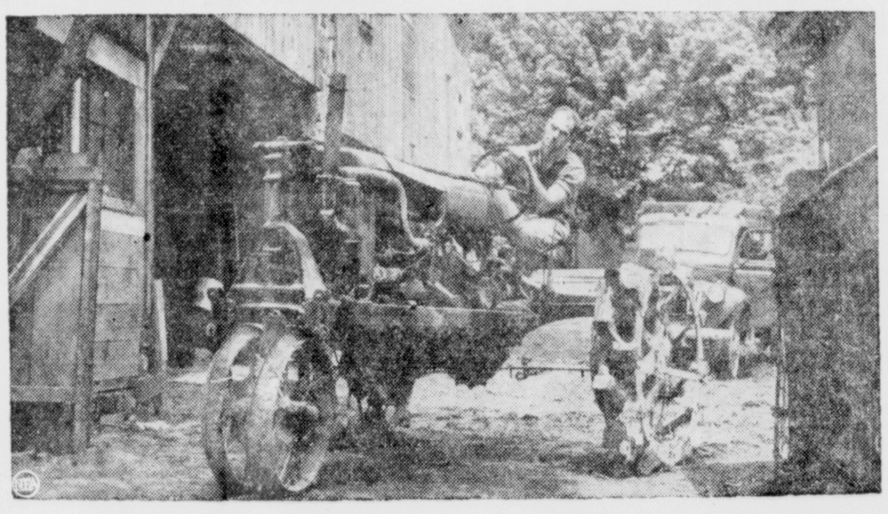

It's "Mister" Hesser now, as Charlie puts his uniform away. Mrs. Hesser watches as he tries on that good old sport coat and hat.

Forgotten now is the mud and discomfort of the foxholes. Like all servicemen, Charlie gets his biggest kick out of just such a simple luxury as a warm bath, with plenty of soapsuds.

If you happen to be driving out Norristown way, you may by chance see Charlie Hesser, farmer, a typical, clean-cut, good-looking American, who helped to wipe out Nazis and Nazism. (NEA Photos.)

A man of the soil returns to his work. Charlie Hesser is working his fields again, adjusting himself to a life far different from the dangerous business of dodging minefields, blowing up pillboxes and clearing boobytraps. Riding a tractor may not be as exciting as driving trucks loaded with TNT under enemy fire, but Charlie is happiest while farming the good earth of his native Pennsylvania. Altogether, about 2,000,000 war veterans will return to civilian life during the next year. Some, like Charlie Hesser, will come back to prewar pursuits. Many plan to start new businesses.

Dressed in civilian clothes at last, Charlie shares a ride on his son's tricycle. Homecoming is thrill for dad, but it's heaven for Johnny, who's just beginning to get acquainted with dad again.

LOCAL SCHOOLS ARE REPAIRED

Exteniors Of Senior And Junior High Get "Face Lifting"

Extensive repair work on exteriors of both the Escanaba junior high school and the senior high school buildings and minor improvements on other school buildings in the city will be completed within the next several days by a crew of workmen employed by Erling Arntzen, contractor, Supt. John A. Lemmer announced yesterday.

The repair work on the junior high school building totalled $2,123.48 and included repairs on the brick work at the corners of the building, replacement of copings, recaulking and similar repairs. In a number of places moisture penetrated the outer walls and freezing conditions forced a separation of the brick. Where cracks were wide, the bricks were removed and replaced, and in less serious cracks the bricks were repointed. The job required about a month with a crew averaging six men.

At the senior high school building, the repairs are estimated at approximately $2,500. Parapet walls on the north and south sides of the building were crumpling and the bricks were removed and replaced to a height of 47 inches above the roof. New concrete copings were constructed on the north and south walls and the coping on the east and west walls were coated with ashpalt. New flashings were also installed at the north and south walls of the building, and the sky light and auditorium flashings were repaired. New copings were installed on the boiler house.

At the Jefferson school, north and south chimneys, now being used for vent stacks, were reduced five to six feet and rebuilt with new brick. This work is nearing completion. At the vocational school concrete floors, replacing asphalt floors, were laid in the auto shop and machine shop.

Remodeling of the Seventh street entrance to the Franklin school building remains to be done. The work is designed to eliminate freezing hazards at the entrance of the building.

Over Four Million Ties Are Produced In The Lake States

Over four million ties were produced by the 700 tie mills operating in Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan, according to a report just issued by the Lake States Forest Experiment Station of St. Paul, Minn. This is an equivalent of 140 million board feet, equalling eleven per cent of the total sawmill production of these states.

Of these 4,120,000, 46 per cent were produced in Wisconsin, 32 per cent in Michigan, and the rest in Minnesota. Oak, maple, and birch are the principal tie species. However, nearly 800,000 ties were made of aspen, ash, elm, and miscellaneous other hardwood species. In addition to these species, some 600,000 cedar, hemlock, and other softwood ties were cut.

The demand for ties continues but the production for 1945 is expected to fall off considerably from that of 1944.

RESORT AREAS WILL BE AIDED

Slaughterers Permitted To Distribute Extra Meat

A measure permitting slaughterers to adjust their distribution of meat temporarily so that more may be shipped into areas that have sharp seasonal influxes of population was announced yesterday by the Office of Price Administration. The action will benefit resort regions.

Before amendment, effective July 15, 1945, all slaughterers were to ship into each county or authorized trading area the same proportionate amount of the meat they shipped into those same counties or trading areas during the base period—the slaughterer's first three-full monthly reporting periods in 1944.

The use of the first quarter of 1944 as the base period would not give areas having sharp seasonal population increases their proportionate share of meat supplies during those periods of the year when the population increases take place. The population increases usually are due to an influx of migratory workers or of persons who temporarily live in the area during certain months of the year, OPA explained.

The action applies only in cases where the slaughterer can show that he delivered into a county or authorized trading area during a temporary period (not exceeding three consecutive reporting periods) in 1944, at least 10 per cent more meat than he delivered into that area during the first three full reporting periods of that year, and that the increased deliveries were due to a substantial increase in population in the area.

The maximum amount of meat that a slaughterer may ship into an area during a temporary three-month period under today's amendment will be limited to the same percentage of his total supply that he shipped into the area during the corresponding period in 1944. For example, if during July, August and September of 1944 he shipped into an area 50 per cent more meat than he shipped to the same area in the base period, he may ship during the same months this year 50 per cent more than the quantity he would ship into that area if he followed his base period distribution pattern.

H'ville Soldier Visits Relatives In Italian City

A fifteen page letter was received here recently by Mr. and Mrs. Anton Framarin from their son Pfc. Clement Framarin, serving with the American Army in Italy, describing a 11 day furlough he spent in Gambellara, Italy with his grandmother and other relatives whom he had never met nor seen before.

Parts of the letter follow:

"An M. P. directed me right to Nerio's (cousin) door. Of course we had to inquire several times before finding the place but now here I was at the home of grandmother.

Nerio was the first I became acquainted with. I asked him his name and he told me, then I said, "I am the son of Antonio Framarin." Then it happened. I was grabbed and kissed by Nerio, his wife, and while in the meantime someone was calling to grandmother that an American wanted to see her, that "Tony's son was here."

Grandmother, a grand old wise lady of 83, came toward me a little doubtful. She looked at me and asked, "Are you Alexander?" "No" I said, Clement. "Then she gave me a terrific hug and kiss. After she had recovered from her surprise she invited me in and at once sent someone for some good wine. She couldn't believe her eyes. She held on to me as if she was afraid I was going to leave. We chatted for quite some time for they had many questions. Then leaving the group that had gathered in the kitchen, Grandma and I went looking over the buildings and the land dad owns.

Then I was returned to the crowd and began to meet some of the village people. Our cousin, Bruna, a beautiful twenty year old lass had just returned from church so she was also introduced.

Framarin writes that he had a very enjoyable furlough wishing that it would have lasted longer. He writes that after the war he would like to return to Italy for a visit.

Pfc. Clement Framarin, 20 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Framarin, entered the service on September 3, 1943 and received his basic training at Camp VanDorn, Miss. He was shipped overseas in April 1944 and has been in Italy ever since. He is a graduate of the Pullman Free School of Manual Training, Chicago, Ill.

New York—Among the fall fabrics that will make you sit up and take notice will be one comment making brocade, inspired by an 18th Century French dandy's embroidered waistcoat.

This jacquard-loomed magnificence, flower-sprigged or leaf-traced with pink, blue, green and bright tinsel threads, is typical of the museum aspect for fall fashions which is catching on because textile designers are tapping museums all over the country for inspiration.

Given these fabulous-looking fabrics to work with, dress designers are coming through—as early collections prove — with fashions so elegant they'll make the dress or suit about which you'll spend a lifetime boasting.

The trend-setting brocade shown in the evening gown and cocktail suit above was designed by Karl Knocklein and Gerhard Knor, who found their inspiration at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Shown left, is the beige satin brocade with the jacquarded leaf, picked out in delicate pastels and bright tinsel threads, which designer Mme. Suzanne turns into a jumper-type dinner dress with belling skirt and sharpens with dark green jersey, used for sleeves and high-hat turban.

The brocade jacquarded with sprigged flowers makes the bustle-back cocktail suit, right, by designer Troy Stix.

Corset Is Lazy Way To Slim Down

Heavy corsets, which squeeze you in here and push you out there, are a lazy way out of the figure-work you should do for yourself. That work is; exercise, diet, good-posture practice, or seeing a physician if there is a glandular disorder.

So says motion-picture stylist Orry-Kelly, who has dressed top Hollywood stars for years. Decrying lazy dependency upon a corset, he says it is not intended to correct figure faults—only to provide good anchorage for the perfect fit of clothes.

Correct posture, according to Orry-Kelly, is the great unknown to nine out of ten women. "What is the good of smart, fashionable attire," he asks, "if a woman slumps like a hippo at the riverside? To put good clothes over rounded shoulders and a sagging frame is like putting a perfect make-up over an unwashed face."

GLASS STRINGS

Kite strings made of glass are used by U. S. Army Air Force flyers who send up box kites with radio antena, when forced down at sea. The glass yarn is used because of its strength and the fact that weather and salt water won't rot it.

More Vitamin A Recommended For Young And Old

Washington — Increasing the family's vitamin A consumption is good for young and old, it appears from studies of rats reported by Dr. H. C. Sherman and Dr. H. L. Campbell, of Columbia University to the National Academy of Sciences here.

Liberal intakes of this vitamin, found in such foods as butter, liver, egg yolk, carrots and green leafy vegetables, tends to postpone aging and increase length of life, Dr. Sherman and colleagues have previously reported.

Now they find that the offspring in rat families on the liberal vitamin A intake grow somewhat more rapidly and with less individual variability. This indicates the scientists point out, that liberal vitamin A has both a favorable and a stabilizing influence on growth.

This favorable, stabilizing effect on rat growth was observed with vitamin A intakes two and four times higher than the intake considered fully enough to meet the rat's nutritional needs.

Lenore Blake Weds Cpl. Robert Hall

At a double ring ceremony performed July 16 at the home of her parents, Miss Lenore Blake, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blake of Ford River, became the bride of Cpl. Robert J. Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Anderson of Escanaba. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Schabow at 3 o'clock in the presence of immediate relatives of both families. Bouquets of fresh flowers were used to decorate the home.

The bride was beautifully gowned in a fitted model of white satin and sheer net, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and bracelet length sleeves. Her finger-tip veil was gathered in a tiara of seed pearls, and her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, which had been worn by her aunt on her wedding day. She carried a bouquete of white roses and snapdragons.

Miss Lois Blake, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a gown of pink net, and a headdress of flowers, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and snapdragons. The bridegroom was attended by S/Sgt. Donald Barber of Beloit, Wis., a close friend who had served with the bridegroom in the Third Army in the European theater.

Mrs. Blake, mother of the bride, wore a dress of aqua mesh, with matching accessories. Mrs. Anderson, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of lime green, with accessories of bittersweet and black. Both mothers wore shoulder corsages of roses.

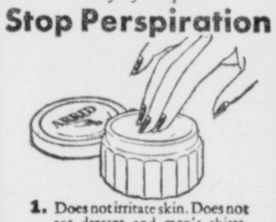

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at the Dells. A three-tiered cake, frosted in white and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, centered the attractively decorated table. The young couple will spend the next two weeks vacationing at a resort at Eagle River, Wis., after which they will return to Escanaba.

Mrs. Hall is a graduate of the Escanaba high school, and is employed in the office at the Birds-Eye Veneer company. Cpl. Hall is also a graduate of Escanaba high school, and has seen three years of service in the Army Signal Corps, 19 months of which he spent overseas. He returned to this country on July 4, and following a 30-day furlough, he will report to his battalion at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Miss Amy Anderson, and Mrs. Gordon Odgers, and daughter, Nancy Jean, all of Dearborn, Mich.

SPEAKS WELL OF LOCAL AIRPORT

Supervisor Of Airports Discusses Postwar Aviation

Manistique airport facilities, with the exception of a few defects which can with little trouble be corrected, are among the best of the sod type of airports in the state, Tracy W. Southworth, of Lansing, state airport supervisor, declared at a conference with members of the Chamber of Commerce, representatives of the city council and county board held at the directors' room of the First National Bank Tuesday evening.

Mr. Southworth's visit here was for the purpose of acquainting local people with the part aviation will play when this country again operates on a peacetime basis and with what should be done to provide adequate facilities in this area to meet those requirements when they arise.

Aviation, he said will have a vital part in the transportation program of the country — a part that will affect every community in the land. Upper Michigan's status as a summer resort region will be greatly influenced by the advancement in air service soon to come, said Mr. Southworth. While he did not predict that huge liners would make scheduled trips to all of the important places in the state, it was a practically certainty, he said, that communities such as Manistique and resort areas of the county would be serviced by shuttle lines of six and eight passenger planes to one or two terminals in the state.

Hangars Necessary

He advised that steps be taken for the construction of T-type hangars, predicting a demand for them by local plane owners and by owners making trips regularly into this territory. He also suggested that tiedowns for planes be provided without rental costs and that gas be kept on hand at the airport for the convenience of the flying public. He also suggested that an airport manager be appointed.

Should Improve Runways

He stated that the runways at the local airport could be greatly improved if they were mowed regularly in a way that would more definitely set them apart from the rest of the field. As it is, there are a few places where an unsuspecting flyer might land with disastrous results. A portion of one of the runways also is dangerous, due to unevenness in the ground. This, he suggested, might be filled up with gravel which would soon be overrun by the quackgrass that abounds in the place.

Quackgrass, ordinarily the bane of the average farmer's existence, was in this case a distinct advantage, Mr. Southworth said. It makes ideal sod surfacing for airports.

Local Aid Necessary

He suggested that the county and the city of Manistique jointly appropriate about $50 per month as a fund to care for maintenance and the construction of facilities that will be needed when postwar aviation comes to its own.

He announced that as a part of the state's appropriation of one million dollars to assist in construction work at many airports throughout Michigan, Schoolcraft county is due to receive, in time, $6,672 as its share in the allocation of these funds. This fund, however, is dependent upon an appropriation of a similar nature by the federal government.

He stated that the state tax on aviation gasoline, which is to go to maintenance of airport facilities and other matters pertaining strictly to aviation, will, in time, finance airport needs in the same way that the state tax on gasoline is paying for the construction and maintenance of highways.

NEW INDUSTRY SEEKS QUARTERS

Wishes To Lease Fair Ground Buildings For Plant

A special meeting of the Schoolcraft county board of supervisors has been called for Monday for the purpose of conferring with Claude L. Hain, of Belleville, Mich., head of the Akin Industries of that city, who wishes to lease the exposition building at the fair grounds for use as a woodworking plant.

It is generally understood that the plant would be devoted to the same purpose as that of the Belleville plant—chiefly the manufacture of ornamental fence posts and similar wood articles. It is also reported that it is the ultimate aim of the company to manufacture prefabricated houses.

The firm has been seeking a site in this area for several months as the management wished to be near the source of the timber it uses.

Announce Change In Draft Status Of Local Men

Change in the classification of nine Schoolcraft county men is announced this week by the county draft board. The men and their new draft ratings are: Raymond L. Billings, 2-A; Gerald Sitkoski, 2-A; Roy L. Briggs, 4-A; Kenneth P. Chartier, 1-C Disc.; James R. Louis, 1-C Disc.; Jesse L. Brown, 1-A; William B. Stites, 1-A; Robert R. Lustila, 1-A; and Conrad F. Jahn, 1-A.

It takes 36 times as many men working in factories today to keep a soldier in the field as it did in Napoleon's time.

TRAMWAY BRIDGE BACK IN SERVICE

Shortcut To West Part Of City Has Now Been Rebuilt

The foot bridge crossing the river just below the paper mill is back in service after being out of commission since April. A section of the bridge had washed out when the river was at high water stage and reconstruction of the span on a more substantial basis proved to be something of a problem.

Two new wedge tipped piers of heavy wood construction were set up in the stream bed and these were filled with rock. It is believed that these will withstand the pressure of the stream during high water stage.

Work on the bridge was hampered and delayed by the soft condition of the mid-stream island which was used as a base of operations. The tractor used in operations became mired on several occasions adding to the trouble of the workmen.

The work was done entirely by workmen from the street department.

A checkup reveals that this bridge is used by hundreds of people evey day employed in the industrial plants west of the river and by residents of West Manistique wishing a short cut to the shopping district, to the churches and the parochial school across the river.

Allocation Board Fixes 1945 Millage

Allocation of the 1945 fifteen mill tax levy, tentatively set in May, was fixed at a meeting of the Schoolcraft county tax allocation commission Monday.

But one change was made in the tentative setup. This was in taking half a mill from the county fund allocation of the City of Manistique and adding it to the school fund.

Allocation of taxes for the City of Manistique is broken up as follows:

County	9 mills
City	.1 mill
Schools	5.9 mills

Allocation for each of the eight townships is as follows:

County	9 mills
Township	1 mill
Schools	5 mills

The half mill switch in the Manistique allocation will benefit city schools to an extent of about $2,500.

ONLY MALES CHIRP

Insects don't chirp in unison, as people probably think they do, it just sounds that way. In a chorus of crickets or katydids, it's every man for himself, and they are males, since it's only the males that can chirp.

Largest Crowd In 25 Years Watches Cubs Split With Brooklyn

WARNEKE FAILS TO MAKE GOOD

Two Big Innings Cinch Nightcap For Dodgers By 9-5 Count

Chicago, July 18 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers exploded Lon Warneke's comeback attempt, 9-5, after the league-leading Chicago Cubs triumphed 5-0 in the opener of a twin bill today witnessed by the largest week day crowd at Wrigley Field in 25 years, 43,047 paid fans.

The split left the Bruins three and a half games ahead of the third-place Dodgers and three games ahead of the second-place St. Louis Cardinals, who faced the Philadelphia Phils in a doubleheader tonight.

Eight pitchers paraded to the mound in the nightcap which the Dodgers cinched with two big innings—the sixth in which the Brooks shelled Warneke from the mound with a four-run attack and the seventh in which Dixie Walker belted a three-run double.

Walker paced Brooklyn's 12-hit attack with a single and a double that drove in five runs.

The Cubs pecked away at Curt Davis for singles in five innings, from the second through the sixth, and were aided by five Dodger miscues which produced three unearned tallies.

PIRATES SHOVED BACK

Pittsburgh, July 18 (AP) — The New York Giants shoved Pittsburgh back into the second division and moved into fourth place today on a double triumph over the Pirates, 6-3 in the opener on Danny Gardella's three-run homer, and 4-3 in the nightcap on Manager Mel Ott's two-run single in the eighth.

Whitey Lockman contributed four hits to the Giants' 15-blow assault on Max Butcher and Ken Gables in the finale but it was Ott's blow scoring George Hausmann and Lockman in the eighth that told the story. Although New York then led 4-0 the Pirates hopped back with three in their half of the frame, flattened Rube Fischer and forced Ott to again call on Adams.

The Phillies took a lead in the first, again in the fourth, once more in the eighth and finally won the game with a single counter in the ninth inning when pinchhitter Rene Monteagudo singled home the winning run.

Boxing Promoters Book 3 Championship Fights

Washington, July 18. (AP)—Three championship fights are in the making to climax the outdoor season, Abe J. Greene, president of the National Boxing association, said today.

In announcing the quarterly NBA ratings, Greene said that Sal Bartola, featherweight; Ike Williams, lightweight, and Manuel Ortiz, bantam, probably will defend their respective titles shortly. Ortiz recently was released from the army.

In addition, Freddie "Red" Cochrane, welter champion, has "virtually signed" for a bout with Ray "Sugar" Robinson, a leading contender, Greene said.

California promoters are seeking a lightweight title bout between Williams and his closest rival, Willie Joyce.

Greene hailed Cochrane's recent good showing against Rocky Graziano in the welter king's first real test since his discharge from the armed forces, as "heartening to other veteran champions" now in service, including: Joe Louis, heavyweight; Gus Lesnevich, light heavy, and Tony Zale, middleweight.

The ratings:

Heavyweight — Champion, Joe Louis, army; logical contender, Billy Conn, army; outstanding boxers, Jimmy Bivins, Ohio; Melie Bettina, army; Tami Mauriello, New York; Joe Baksi, Pennsylvania; Lee Oma, Michigan; Elmer Ray, Florida; Johnny Flynn, Army.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

The Upper Peninsula softball tournament will be held at Menominee Aug. 4 and 5, Fred Klaus commissioner, has announced. The Twin City Major softball league will serve as host of the tournament and entry blanks have been mailed to 40 teams in the upper peninsula. Four diamonds in Menominee and Marinette will be available for the tournament, two of them lighted, but final arrangements for the affair will be held in abeyance, pending the receipt of entry forms.

* * *

The announcement that entry blanks have been mailed to 40 upper peninsula teams suggests the probability that the July 1 deadline for sanctioning upper peninsula teams with the Michigan Softball association is being waived. This is a sensible policy, because strict adherence to that regulation would rule out many of the best teams in the peninsula. It is extremely doubtful that many teams, other than those in Escanaba, sent in their sanction fees prior to July 1.

For the past two years the upper peninsula tournament has been compressed into a one-day show, but there is no denying that fact that a two-day tournament is better if the competing teams can spare the extra day. Presumably some kind of a survey will be made to ascertain if the teams can be available for both Saturday and Sunday games. Obviously if a substantial number of teams indicate that their players cannot get time off from work for Saturday games, it will be necessary to run the tournament in a single Sunday program. Because of the availability of two lighted fields, however, it seems likely that first round games could be played Saturday night.

* * *

There may be some super-technical folks who will lift their eyebrows over the prospects of playing some of the upper peninsula tournament games in the adjoining state of Wisconsin, but that should be nothing to get excited over. It is rather unfortunate, in fact, that the Marinette teams will be ineligible for the competition. It would help to stimulate local interest in the affair.

* * *

Since some of the tournament games presumably will be played under lights, it is fortunate that Escanaba's lighted field will be ready for play sufficiently in advance of the U. P. tournament to give local teams a chance to work out under the Mazdas. The local lighted field will be completed this week, according to reports, and the first game will be played there Saturday night, a special exhibition match.

Bad Back Forces Nelson To Give Up In St. Paul Open

Rochester, Minn., July 18 (AP)—Goldfdom's big money winner, Byron Nelson of Toledo, today bowed out of the St. Paul open tournament because of a back injury suffered in a recent driving contest.

Nelson came here from Sioux City, Ia., where he shot a 68 in an exhibition to undergo examination by Mayo Clinic physicians. Reports on the examination were not available but Nelson told tournament officials that it would be impossible for him to take part in the quest for $10,000 worth of war bonds.

After going through the Mayo Clinic here, Nelson said physicians had advised him to rest a few days to recover from a painful shoulder muscle strain. He left tonight for Chicago where he said he would definitely enter the Tam O'Shanter tourney next week, following a short recuperation period.

Despite his pain, Nelson went through with an exhibition match at the Country Club here, dropping the course record two notches to 66 the first and only time he played it. Joe Kirkwood had set a 68 mark—two strokes below par—in 1933. Playing with Nelson, Harold (Jug) McSpaden turned in a 74 card.

Nelson's withdrawal left Harold "Jug" McSpaden of Sanford, Me., enjoying the favorite's spot in the revived St. Paul open, to be played over the Keller course after a two-year lapse.

SHARP DECLINES ARE EXTENDED

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York, July 18 (AP)—Selling waned in today's stock market and assorted rallying strength appeared but many leaders extended their sharp decline of the previous session.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .2 of a point at 64.4 where it was around its mid-May low. Of 948 issues registering, 510 were in the minus column, 263 up and 175 unchanged.

American Car & Foundry enjoyed a late bulge on a lifted dividend and ended with an advance of two points. Electric Power & Light was a feature performer, jumping 2 1-8 to 12½, a 1945 peak, partly in response to a substantial increase in net income. In front were Bethlehem, Chrysler, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Montgomery Ward, Johns-Manville and Pan American Airways.

On the offside were American Telephone, Great Northern, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Boeing, Texas Co. and International Harvester.

SELLING PRESS FELT

New York, July 18 (AP)—Recovery forces were at work in some parts of the bond market today, but the main corporate list was still under enough selling pressure to slant the general trend lower.

A group of rails, specially favored by buyers for one reason or another, showed the best rallying power, some recouping one to two points of Tuesday's severe declines. Others extended the losses by as much or more and there was about an even split between minus and plus signs among industrials and utilities. There was less activity than in the preceding session with sales at $7,500,000 against $8,452,000.

Prominent in the advancing column were Pittston Co. 5½s, American & Foreign Power 5s, Baltimore & Ohio stamped convertibles, Central of Georgia 5½s, Chicago & Alton 3s, St. Paul 5s and adjustment 5s, Rock Island refunding 4s, International Hydro Electric 6s and Missouri Pacific 5s and 5½s. U. S. governments were about steady.

Sinking still further were bonds of the Seaboard Airline, North Western, Katy, New Haven, American Telephone, Central of New Jersey, Delaware & Hudson, Lackawanna, Rio Grande Western and Florida East Coast. There were numerous others.

Foreign dollar bonds were quiet and followed the general market pattern.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, July 18 (AP)—Continued bombardment of Japan and rumors of a possible early peace caused a sharp reaction in grain futures today, rye dropping as much as 4 cents a bushel at times before rallying in late trade. Wheat, oats and barley also fell more than a cent at times.

Liquidation began following a story from Sydney, Australia, that newspapers there were publishing reports that "big news" relating to Japan would be forthcoming soon.

Almost all grains rallied somewhat in late trade and rye closed down 1 to 1 3-4 cent from the previous finish. July $1.49 3-4. Wheat was 3-8 to 1 1-8 cent off, July $1.63 5-8 to $1.63½, corn was unchanged to 1-8 up, July $1.18½, oats were ¼ higher to 5-8 lower, July 65 to 65¼, and barley was down 1 1-8 to 1 3-4 cent, July $1.15¼.

The government's weekly weather and crop summary said corn had made fair advances in eastern sections.

Q. What is an allotment of pay?

A. An allotment of pay is a part of the pay of a service man or woman which he or she (or other competent authority in certain cases) authorizes to be deducted from his or her pay account each month and paid to a designated person, bank, or insurance company. Allotments of pay are, in general, voluntary acts of the service man or woman and are revocable by them.

Q. What does the word "WAVES" stand for?

A. The popular name "WAVES" comes from the phrase, "Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service."

Q. Can a disability pension be apportioned in the event the veteran and wife or husband or dependents are living separate and apart?

A. Yes. Such pension is subject to the apportionment regulations providing for the apportionment of compensation or pension.

Q. Why is Sudetenland, Czechoslovakia so named?

A. Its name is derived from the Sudetes mountains which lie on and south of the former border of Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Q. Have all of the Pan American countries declared war on Japan?

A. Colombia is the only one that has not done so.

Q. I know that Hoop, Jr. won the Kentucky Derby, but have forgotten who ran second and third. Can you tell me?

A. Pot o'Luck ran second; Darby Dieppe, third.

Q. I have planted a young hedgerow, but dogs are able to get through. Can you suggest a way to keep them out?

A. A strip of chicken wire, about two feet high, staked up through the center of the hedgerow will keep out the dogs. When the wire has disintegrated the hedge will have grown sufficiently to become a barrier against intruders.

Q. Why do toadstools frequently appear in lawns, and what is a good way to destroy them?

A. Because the soil is rich in organic matter. Mowing usually destroys them, but in persistent infestations soak the ground thoroughly with sulphate of copper or Bordeaux mixture. Another method is to loosen the soil and soak with iron sulphate, using one pound to 1½ gallons of water. The Bordeaux mixture is preferred as it does little or no damage to the grass.

SWIMMING POOL INCREASE SEEN

Expert Estimates 200 To Be Built In State After War

More than 200 public and private swimming pools will be built in Michigan within five years after the war, according to a recent study by a prominent swimming publication.

"Increased stress on swimming in the armed forces, the intensive instruction program of the Red Cross and the growing pollution of open waters will result in doubling swimming facilities everywhere," said Sylvan Hoffman, editor of Beach and Pool, who forecasts that the nation will construct about 10,000 new pools in the first five postwar years.

Outdoor pools, now about 60 per cent of the total in operation throughout the country, will show a slight gain over indoor in future construction, according to Hoffman. Tile will continue to be used extensively for pools because of its sanitary features and ease of cleaning. Chief change will be a demand for new designs and more use of color, he predicted.

"In general, municipal pools will be larger, with wading and diving separated from swimming sections," Hoffman said. "Tile indoor pools will be in greatest demand by schools and colleges, where swimming like other body building exercises, will be stepped up after the war," he declared.

Michigan now has about 400 pools, according to estimates of Beach and Pool. Swimming facilities of private estates, camps, hotels, schools, country clubs and pool operators, as well as municipalities, are included in this figure.

The greatest number of U. S. swimming pools—an estimated 4,000 of the national total of 10,000—are owned by municipalities and counties, according to Hoffman. YMCA's colleges, schools and hotels come next, with 2,500 while private estates claim 1,500 pools, country clubs 1,200 and commercial interests 800.

Tire Dealers Must File 5-71 Report

Tire dealers in the Upper Peninsula who did not file their R-71 report to the OPA Inventory Control Unit, New York City, on or before July 10, are warned that they can no longer sell new passenger car tires and new or used truck tires legally.

C. A. "Cliff" LaTurneau, District Tire Rationing Officer for the Escanaba district, advises dealers that the R-71 Form may be obtained from the Escanaba office. It should be filled out and mailed promptly to the New York Center with a letter stating the reasons for not filing before the dead-line.

Mr. LaTurneau emphasized the fact that despite rumors to the contrary the tire situation on the whole is still tight. June 30, the back log of passenger car tire applications amounted to 4,083 in the fifteen counties of the Upper Peninsula. At the same time truck tire applications for size 7.50 and smaller were 383 behind our quota and truck tire applications for size 8.25 and larger were short 143.

KNOWS HER ONIONS—Mrs. Elizabeth Gafner, 80-year-old resident, is receiving many compliments from her neighbors nowadays for she has one of the finest gardens in the city. In addition to a flower and vegetable plot in the rear of her home at 627 North Nineteenth street, the aged woman tends another garden, 100 by 140 feet, in the "600" block of North Twentieth street, where she has an assortment of onions, carrots, beets, beans, tomatoes, peppers, corn and cucumbers. She takes care of the garden plots all alone.

Vegetable Tests Will Be Featured At Chatham Aug. 3

The Early Chatham tomato will be one of the feature exhibits among vegetables at the annual Farmers' Round-Up at the U. P. Experiment Station, Chatham, on August 3. This variety, because of early ripening, high yield and high quality of fruit, has become the most popular one in Upper Michigan, in the opinion of Perry Bowser, station horticulturist. Developed at the Chatham station, the variety was introduced through agricultural agents and has become known favorably in many states as well as two provinces of Canada. Comparison of hot caps with no hot caps is being tried by Bowser for the third year. Some seed was planted directly in the ground under hot caps. One new trial this year is the comparison of glass caps with hot caps. Reject glass dishes were furnished the station for this work. The glass showed up well this year probably because of the cool season, Bowser thinks. In the tomato variety tests the following varieties are being compared to Early Chatham: Victor, Bounty, Alaska and Firesteel.

In the sweet corn variety tests seven of the thirteen varieties are new ones. That list includes Early Golden Hybrid 1-13, Special Seneca 60, Kingscross Golden Bantam M-13, Kingscross Ear Pack Bantam B2, Kingscross Golden Bantam G7, Carmel Cross and Lincoln. The varieties that have been grown before and are being continued are: Our Choice, Surprise, North Star, Marcross, Early Bancross and Northern Cross. These different varieties will be checked by freezing as well as using fresh.

New Laws Of Concern To All Assessing Officers

The attention of all assessing officers, clerks and treasurers in Delta county yesterday was directed by County Treasurer Robert Robert C. Pryal to the new laws passed by the last legislature which particularly concern them.

One of the these is the soldiers and sailors exemption. Pryal explained that homesteads, as defined by the Constitution are a village or city lot, or forty acres of land. Servicemen should have been living on the homestead before entering the service, but if not and he is sure that after the service he intends to live on that land, he can accept affidavit and the state will pay the tax.

An affidavit, only one for the duration from a near relative of the serviceman, must be filed with the assessor if the total holdings real and personal, are not valued over $7,500 and the exemption must be made. The exemption is $2,000.

Veterans of any war or the unmarried widow of a veteran, who file exemptions each year, are exempt, providing veterans of World War I or World War II prove from veterans' administration that they are receiving disability payments.

Servicemen's property is not offered for tax sale if it is known to be his property. It is important, therefore, that parcel of land owned by a man in service be marked "Armed Services." For the benefit of the township treasurer it is advisable to mark the exempted parcels "Armed Services Homestead." The township treasurer will bill the state and receive the tax money.

Pryal advised further that copies of all tax receipts made out in September will be mailed to each township clerk starting in October. The new law now requires that the township clerk deliver the receipts to secretaries of the school boards. The law also states that school moneys in the hands of township treasurers be paid to the schools each month.

Township treasurers will now be bonded each year for county, county road and school taxes and they are required to furnish the schools with a copy of the settlement sheet and also an itemized settlement sheet and also an itemized list of every parcel they return delinquent together with the amount of each school tax.

It will also be necessary for the assessing officer to furnish the township clerk with the list of properties in his school districts.

First Steep Rock Ore Is Shipped

Port Arthur, Ont.— (AP) —Climaxing years of labor and millions of dollars spent in development, the first shipment of iron ore from Steep Rock Mines, 140 miles west of here, arrived at the new Canadian National Railways ore dock yesterday.

Carried in 40 specially-constructed cars, the ore weighed more than 2,000 tons. It was dumped into bins at the dock to await the arrival of the first vessel Friday. Then most of it will go to blast furnaces in United States.

Officials of the Steep Rock Mine, located four miles north of Atikokan, Ont., said that it is planned to ship 1,000,000 tons of ore through Port Arthur and Superior, Wis., this year. Other trains are expected to arrive here before the end of the week with more ore.
